Baltic Fleet Fires Upon the Boats in the North Sea.

SAILORS ARE KILLED

Czar's Warships Create an International Sensation Without Apparent Motive.

HORRIBLE TALE BY SURVIVOR

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

HULL, ENGLAND, Oct. 23.—A. M. Jackson & Co., solicitors for the owners of 50 Hull fishing boats, have notified the foreign office and admiralty of an attack on the Hull fishing fleet by the Russian Pacific fleet, commonly designated the Baltic squadron.

The official information is that shortly after midnight, Friday, the Russian squadron fell in with the Hull fishing fleet in the North sea. The first portion of the fishing fleet passed safely. Then the Russian ships turned their searchlights on the British vessels for some time and a little later opened fire. The steam trawler Crate was sunk and the decapitated bodies of her skipper and mate have been brought to Hull. The boatswain and other members of the crew, who are understood to be seriously injured, are on board a mission ship. The only slightly injured member of the crew has arrived at Hull.

The steam trawlers Moulmin and Mino have arrived at Hull seriously damaged by shots, the latter having 16 holes in her hull. It is feared that other damage was done to trawlers and that at least one more was lost with all hands.

Struck by Many Shots.

The news has created an intense sensation and indignation in Hull. The Moulmin arrived with her flag at half-mast. Her skipper states the trawlers were fishing about 220 miles east by north of Spurn Head at 1 o'clock Saturday morning, the weather being hazy, when the outlines of several vessels, apparently warships sailing in line, were dimly seen.

While the crew were watching the warships, searchlights were flashed upon them, in the glare of which the Moulmin's crew observed what they took to be torpedo boats approaching, apparently with the intention of boarding the Moulmin. They steamed away, however, and soon the fishermen were horrified to find they were being fired upon. First one and then another trawler was struck by flying shot. What seemed to be a round shot went through the Moulmin's galley. The Mino, lying near by, also was struck with many shots, but fortunately the damage was above her water line and none of her crew was struck.

The bombardment lasted about 20 minutes. When it had ceased the fleet sailed southward, and some of the trawlers sent up rockets. The Moulmin steered in the direction of the rockets. Soon cries were heard and the Crane was found sinking, with another trawler taking off some of her crew. Those seriously injured were removed to a mission ship, and the bodies of Smith and Leggott were placed aboard the Moulmin.

Fired Without Motive.

Crowds have gathered around the dock, but no further information is available. Representatives of the fishing fleet started late tonight for London to consult with the authorities there. No motive can be assigned for the extraordinary procedure of the Russian warships.

According to other reports the affair occurred 200 miles off Spurn Head. The Russian ships were steaming in line. The leading ships passed without incident, though most of the vessels turned searchlights on the trawlers long enough to prevent any mistake as to identity. After the bulk of the squadron had passed it opened fire, nearly all participating in the firing. The Crane was struck below the water line and raked above deck. Skipper Smith and Third Hand Leggott had their heads carried away by a shot, many of the crew being seriously wounded. Another trawler also was sunk, but the Moulmin, which brought the news to Hull, has no particulars as to her fate.

The only survivor of the Crane who has yet reached here is J. A. Smith, son of the deceased skipper, and who, with the captains of the Moulmin and Mino is going to London to consult with the authorities. Young Smith was asleep in his bunk when the firing aroused him. Just as he was getting up a shot struck the starboard and penetrated to the forecastle, smashing a lamp near which he was standing. He rushed on deck, where the searchlights revealed the horrible sight of his father and Leggett lying headless, and the deck strewn with the injured. It was soon found that the vessel was sinking, and signals for assistance were sent up. Smith and others concur in the details of the firing that have already been given.

ATTACK UNWARRANTED, SAYS MAGPIE'S CAPTAIN

The Russians Could Not Possibly Have Mistaken Character of His Boat.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The steam cutter Magpie, belonging to the Gamecock trawler fleet, which was fired on by the Russian Baltic fleet, arrived in the Thames tonight. Her captain, Peaker, confirmed the details of the story received from Hull. He says:

"Friday night there were about 40 vessels of the Gamecock fleet fishing. It was a misty, drizzly night. We spread over an area of some miles. Our admiral had just previously signaled by rockets and colored lights the fishing directions for the night. Whether that had anything to do

SQUADRON FEARED SUBMARINE BOATS

Count Cassini Thinks Sinking of English Vessels the Result of Precaution.

WASHINGTON IS ASTONISHED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23.

Russia has feared submarine attacks upon the Baltic fleet and Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador here, surmises that the sinking of the English fishing smacks may have been the result of the extreme precautions taken by Admiral Rojestvensky for the protection of his ships. He has heard nothing from his foreign office. He said:

"Russia has had good reason to expect her enemies would attempt to attack the Baltic fleet on its way to the far east—possibly by submarines; possibly in other ways. It was necessary that every safeguard be thrown about the cruise of this squadron. I should think that if the reports are true this affair is simply a deplorable mistake. It is, of course, manifest that our great battleship squadron would have no object in disturbing fishing smacks."

Astonishment that the Russian commander should have committed such a blunder as to fire on inoffensive fishing vessels prevails in official circles tonight. At the same time these officials are prompt to express the opinion that the Russian government will promptly disavow the act and apologize when the facts are fully known. The tragedy, it is realized, adds to the complications which the Baltic fleet already has encountered ever since it was determined that the vessels should go to the far east.

BOY WANTONLY SLAIN; GYPSIES IN CUSTODY

Lad Stolen for Nomadic Training Believed to Have Been Murdered by Abductors.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

PHOENIXVILLE, PA., Oct. 23.—The body of Michael Miorski, a five-year-old boy of Phoenixville, who was kidnaped by gypsies on Friday, was found today in a deserted house two miles from the town. His throat was cut and his head was gashed. He had been dead some time. Five gypsies were arrested on suspicion of having committed the crime. They are members of a band camped near Phoenixville. Harry Wells, "the king," was one of those arrested. He is known all over the United States.

The police believe the gypsies kidnaped the boy with the intention of training him as one of their band, and when search for him made their detection certain they killed him and secreted the body.

Feeling ran high against the arrested men in Phoenixville tonight. A large crowd surrounded the jail, threatening to lynch the prisoners. The jailers had great difficulty in guarding them.

MORGAN'S KNOCK NO GOOD.

Multi-Millionaire Refused Admission to Closed Session of the Episcopal House of Bishops.

BOSTON, MASS., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Delegates to the Episcopal convention have been enjoying a smile at the expense of J. Pierpont Morgan. He sought entrance yesterday at the door of the house of bishops, and was refused admittance. It is not often a man of his position and influence is forced to retire before an ecclesiastical custom.

The house of bishops sits with closed doors, and will not open except to an Episcopal knock. Mr. Morgan did not, of course, have the proper signal and was turned down. The financier was inclined to be angry at first, but took his rebuff good-naturedly and smiles with the others.

Shot Dead at Christening.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Joseph Szemon, a Slav, aged 23, was shot twice in the neck last night at a christening at the Victoria mines, in Henry township, and instantly killed. Charles E. Whitney, aged 38, bookkeeper for the Victoria Coal Company, charged with the killing, was lodged in jail here.

POLITICAL ROW ENDS IN DEATH

Church Services Followed by a Fatal Riot in a West Virginia Village.

STATE TAX LAW THE CAUSE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Oct. 23.—Within half an hour after the benediction had been pronounced at the close of morning services in the little church near Mill Creek, on the Big Sandy river, today, one man who had listened to the sermon was dead and another was probably fatally stabbed. The tragedy was the result of a political argument in which a half dozen members of the congregation engaged after leaving the church.

The dead man, William Kennedy, was 39 years old and leaves a family. Henry Wellman, who was stabbed during the fight, cannot recover.

The state tax law is an issue of importance in the pending campaign in West Virginia, and when church was out a group of men stood near the door discussing the question. The argument grew bitter, and in a short time blows were struck. Ralph Wellman, who had taken a leading part in the dispute, is alleged to have drawn a revolver and shot Kennedy, who died within a few minutes. A moment after the shot was fired Henry Wellman, a relative of the murdered man, received a knife thrust and fell with blood streaming from a wound in his chest.

Ralph Wellman, Foster Wright and John Shrewsbury were arrested. It is alleged Shrewsbury stabbed Henry Wellman.

William Kennedy was one of the wealthiest residents of the community, and all those who took part in the fight are well known.

JAPANESE ENVOY WILL STOP IN PITTSBURGH

Fushima's American Tour Is Designed to Strengthen Ties Between Two Nations.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—It was stated authoritatively today that the purpose of the emperor of Japan in sending on a visit to this country his adopted brother, his imperial highness, Prince Fushimi, who will reach San Francisco about the middle of November, is to strengthen by every appropriate means the traditional friendship between the United States and Japan. His highness will maintain his official status as imperial prince only at Washington and St. Louis, but in all other cities he will travel incognito. After his visit to the world's fair he will quietly visit the educational, commercial and industrial centers of this country, such as Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburgh, Chicago, etc., to study the true cause of the growing greatness of the United States, and also of the legitimate influence this great republic in the far east.

Mr. Pierce, the third assistant secretary of state, and Mr. Takahira are now preparing the program for the entertainment of the prince. It is probable the prince's tour will include a visit to West Point, as his highness is keenly interested in military matters, having already fought with distinction in the far eastern war.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED BY BROTHER AT WEBSTER

WEBSTER, PA., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Accidentally shot by his brother, Philip Wilson, 19 years old, lies dead at his home here tonight. The two young men were in their room getting ready to attend church, when the tragedy occurred. A revolver lay on a dresser in the room, and Alexander Wilson picked the weapon up and playfully snapped the trigger, thinking the chambers were empty. Alexander, who is 17 years old, is nearly crazed by grief.

Christening of Italy's Crown Prince.

ROME, Oct. 23.—(Special Cable.)—The king of Italy has not yet set the date for the christening of the crown prince, but it is generally thought the ceremony will take place in this city in the royal chapel of the Quirinal, the middle of next month. After the christening the king and queen will remove their residence to the castle of San Rossore.

FRANCHISE DEAL FALLS THROUGH

Director Bigelow and Mayor Hays Leave Town for a Week.

MEETING OF COUNCIL IS OFF

To all appearances the big deal over electric light and traction franchises between the Hall and Verner syndicates has been declared off by the promoters of the Verner syndicate, and no attempt will be made to put the deal through councils for the present. Director Bigelow left late Saturday night with his wife for St. Louis, to be gone a week, and Mayor Hays, accompanied by Select Councilman Peter Hermes, also departed at the same time for the same place, to be gone the same length of time.

A special meeting of common council was called for tonight, but it was understood last night by the Hall boomers that Bigelow had given orders before he left to call the meeting off.

According to reliable information last night, Bigelow and Verner were induced to declare off the deal with the Hall company because of the developments at the meeting of common council Friday afternoon when, after the Hall light ordinance had been passed on second reading, the traction ordinances were held up. One was referred to a committee, another amended to include a $25,000 annual rental clause and the third was not even taken up on second reading.

It is said the Verner crowd feared the Hall company intended to cheat them; to put their own ordinance through first and then to quietly aid in killing the traction bills. The attitude of A. G. Roenigk, a Hall councilman of the Twentieth ward, and a close friend of Director Clark, who is the treasurer of the Hall company, in attacking the traction bills bitterly aroused suspicion, and the support given Roenigk by other Citizens members, including President Ward and Thomas Scott, convinced Bigelow and Verner that "something was doing." They realized that if a meeting was held tonight the Hall ordinance was bound to pass finally as only a majority vote was necessary to accomplish this, and they also knew it would be an impossibility to pass any one of the three traction ordinances finally tonight, because they are all on second reading and the votes to suspend the rules could not be mustered.

Bigelow and Verner were not willing to trust the Hall people, and they decided to declare off the council meeting until better arrangements could be made and to get out of town. It was also reported last night that Verner had departed from the city.

WOLFE HELD FOR MURDER.

Slayer of Youngstown Strikers Secures Lawyer and Will Fight Hard for Life.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Following the killing of the two Amalgamated association strikers last night, a large detail of police reserves is being kept ready for any emergency. Fred F. Wolfe, the roller who did the shooting, was arraigned on a charge of murder early this morning. He waived a preliminary examination and was committed to jail without bail.

The strikers' committee was called together this afternoon to arrange for the funeral of the dead men, Thomas Connelly and Patrick McLaughlin. The committee will take up the matter of prosecuting the case against Wolfe and will engage counsel to assist the prosecuting attorney, W. R. Graham.

Patrick Cardon, arrested last night to save him from violence, was released this morning to appear tomorrow on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

MISTAKEN FOR PIRATES.

Irate Oyster Man Who "Blazed Away" at Torpedo Boat Crew Has Apologized.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—The first attack on a United States war vessel since the Spanish war occurred on the 20th inst. at Fox island in Tangier sound, Md. The attacking party was an irate Marylander, who fired "both barrels" at the crew of one of the torpedo boats which are stationed in Tangier sound.

The "enemy" has apologized to the navy department and the latest accounts indicate that none of the crew, whom he mistook for oyster pirates, was hit by the scattering buckshot.

FILTER SITE MAY BE SOLD

Maignen Proposes to Build a Plant Over the Highland Reservoirs.

SAVING OF $2,250,000

Expert Declares Land at Aspinwall and New Basins There Are Unnecessary.

PLANS ARE BEING PREPARED

A proposition to dispense with the filtration site at Aspinwall and to sell the 91 acres already acquired there will be made to Pittsburgh councils. Councils will also be asked to consider the plan of building a filter plant, not at Aspinwall, but in Highland park and on top of the big reservoirs in service there. The plan is a unique one and is the result of the recent visit to Pittsburgh of Prof. P. J. A. Maignen, the filtration expert.

Prof. Maignen went to Aspinwall and inspected the site there which was purchased by Director Bigelow for the big sand filtration beds and reservoirs. He also inspected the two big reservoirs in Highland park and the Brilliant pumping station. Maignen at once declared that not one acre of the Aspinwall land was needed to give the people of Pittsburgh filtered water and he advised the land be sold by the city and the proceeds, which would amount to about $900,000, be applied to the plan which he proposes.

Prominent French Engineer.

Prof. Maignen is a French engineer who has invented a system of preliminary filtration which is in use in Philadelphia and other places, including some cities in Europe. On his way home to Philadelphia from a convention of filtration experts at St. Louis last week, he stopped in Pittsburgh for several days and made himself thoroughly acquainted with local conditions affecting the water supply and distribution.

Maignen gave assurances that he could build a filtration plant of 100,000,000 gallons daily capacity for Pittsburgh for $5,000,000 by saving the cost of the land at Aspinwall, the sedimentation and clear water basins, which it is proposed to erect there, also the pumping station and machinery, the pipe line between Aspinwall and Brilliant and the cost of operating the Aspinwall plant.

Upon these assurances steps have been taken to organize a company, consisting of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia capitalists, to build the plant for Pittsburgh that Maignen has proposed, and the latter is now preparing the plans, which will be submitted to councils soon.

Engineer Maignen's Plan.

Maignen's plan is to build a sand filter and a preliminary filter over one compartment of the old reservoir No. 1 in Highland park and over one-half of the new reservoir No. 2. These filters are to be constructed of concrete and cement and to be supported by light steel frames. There is to be a separate story for the sand filter beds, which will be immediately above the reservoir, and another story for the preliminary filter, above the sand beds. This will make a structure of three short stories, including the basin, and one that when ornamented with a central tower and gable roofs will look more like a church than a water plant.

A partition wall is to be built in the new reservoir No. 2 to divide it into two equal compartments. In the first compartment the raw water will be pumped from the Allegheny river by the Brilliant pumps and this basin will be exposed to the air and from it the water will be pumped into the preliminary filter over the adjoining basin. The water will first enter the preliminary filter, which will be filled with boulders, coke and sponges. The water will be forced upward through the preliminary filter and when cleansed of all the mud and, it is claimed, two-thirds of the bacteria, it will flow down into the sand beds immediately underneath the preliminary filter.

Pure Water for the Mains.

It will then go through the sand beds and into the clear water section of the reservoir underneath. Thence it enters the mains and is distributed through the city. The same plans are being made for a plant at the old reservoir No. 1.

Prof. Maignen has built a much smaller plant, upon the same principle, at South Bethlehem, which will be in operation in two or three weeks, and he has recently secured a contract for a plant of the same character at Lancaster. He has also built several in Europe, particularly one in Cherbourg, France, but the one he is planning for Pittsburgh exceeds in size anything of the kind he has attempted.

The only local promoters known in the enterprise are John I. Shaw and Charles R. Buchheit, although several prominent Philadelphians are reported to have an interest in the scheme.

"We will present our plans to councils and will file a trust company bond that we will take the contract and build the filter plant for Pittsburgh for less than $5,000,000," said Mr. Buchheit yesterday. "This is about $2,250,000 less than Director Bigelow proposes to build it for and he does not guarantee that $7,500,000 will be the total cost. We can save the city about $2,250,000 in the cost of construction and $75,000 a year in the cost of operation by dispensing with an unnecessary plant at Aspinwall and building it directly over the present reservoir."

AUTHOR MADE INSANE BY TOO STEADY WORK

MUNICH, Oct. 23.—(Special Cable.)—The tragic fate of the noted author, Oscar Panizza, who has been declared incurably insane, is being greatly deplored here. The author, who has always been somewhat eccentric, recently became suddenly insane. It is thought the plot in a book on which he is known to have been working had turned his head.

DAWSON HAS CONTEST WON

Tide Has Turned in Favor of Republicans in West Virginia.

CORNWELL BEATEN

Democratic Spellbinders Started Their Fight on Tax Reform Too Early in Campaign.

FEW BETS ARE BEING MADE

Special Telegram From
Walter J. Christy, Staff Correspondent.

WHEELING, W. VA., Oct. 23.—The Democrats are now sorry that they forced the fighting on tax reform so early in the campaign. They fired their guns too soon and now the Republicans have them on the defensive, for the last week W. M. O. Dawson, the Republican nominee for governor, has been gaining ground. The danger of his defeat by Senator John J. Cornwell, the Democratic candidate, is passed.

It is the governorship and the legislature that the Democrats are especially interested in. Henry G. Davis may have an idea that he can win the electoral vote of the state, but John T. McGraw and his lieutenants have no dreams of that kind. McGraw is hopeful that he can elect Cornwell and is also working to secure at least a majority of the house of delegates. In the closing days of the campaign it will be found that the Democrats will bend every energy toward getting control of the legislature. The Republicans are thoroughly familiar with the desperate tactics the Democrats intend to attempt and will be able to successfully meet the onslaught.

Two Congressional Fights.

Of the five congressional districts, the Republicans have hard fights in two, but are confident of winning. The trouble in both cases is the opposition to Dawson from corporations. One employer of labor in a strong Republican community was inclined to keep as many of his men as possible from voting so that there would be no chance of Dawson getting the support of these electors. Such action would have endangered a Republican congressman. It is understood that the employer has decided to abandon his plan, but will use every influence to prevent his workers from voting for Dawson.

While many of the corporations are fighting Dawson, there are a number that are not and some of these that in the opening of the campaign were favorable to Cornwell, have changed their opinion. Davis is working hard to corrall the railroad vote of the state for Cornwell, and as much more of the ticket as he can. In some parts of the state he has met with success, and in others "Uncle Gassaway" has found that this class of employes is determined to help Dawson. The effort to get the solid support of the oil men for Cornwell has not born fruit. Cornwell has shown while in the state senate that he is not burdened with a love for the "plain people." Numerous utterances of his that do not sound well to the wage earners of the state have been brought to light, and the Democratic gubernatorial candidate has no defense.

Fired Too Soon.

Over a month ago the Democrats made a rapid fire attack on the tax reform legislation put through by the Republicans at the special session of the legislature. Republican State Chairman Northcott and the other leaders did not reply and the Democrats thought it was the intention of the enemy to let the matter go by default. As a result the state was flooded with Democratic tax orators and they thought they were free to talk with an utter disregard for the truth. The result was that the state was plastered with lies from one end to the other. In the meantime the Republicans were quietly preparing their reply. Suddenly Chairman Northcott turned his spellbinders loose in every part of the state. They answered in detail the arguments put forth by the Democrats and in most cases proved that McGraw's orators had wandered far from the truth. The voters are now satisfied that their best interests will be subserved by a continuance of the Republican administration in the state. From now until the votes are counted, it will simply be a question of adding to the Dawson majority.

The betting is now in favor of Dawson, and the Cornwell men will not risk their money even when odds are offered. In this city the other day an offer was made by a Republican to wager $2,500 to $2,000 that Dawson would be elected and a taker could not be found. Another Wheeling Republican has $5,000 to bet that Dawson will win.

Will Use Much Cash.

In the closing days of the campaign the Democrats intend to put a big wad of money into the state. It is to be used in the hope of helping Cornwell, and the Democratic candidates for the legislature. So far the Democrats are supposed to have raised a campaign fund of $147,000, and the greater part of it has been distributed or is supposed to have been put out. "Uncle Gassaway" has not shown a willingness to be too free with his purse, but his lieutenants are hopeful that he can be made to unbelt when the time for the grand roundup comes.

The Democrats are spending much time crying fraud. They are protesting so loud that it is generally suspected that the yell is for the purpose of covering their schemes. They are talking about sending men armed with shotguns to the polls in certain parts of the state. Their plan is to intimidate in strong Republican districts. In some counties where they have election boards, the Republicans will have to fight for all they get. In Pocahontas county several hundred Republicans will be forced to travel 45 miles to cast their votes. The county judges have refused to give them relief in the hope that by making them take this journey many will decide to remain at home.

In West Virginia the polls are open from sunrise to sunset. An official time is supposed to be published on election day, but the average election officer, who can see a point in declaring that the "sun has set" either before or after the official time, is not likely to overlook the opportunity.

DEMOCRATIC MANAGERS ARE CLAIMING ALL IN SIGHT

Doubtful States Safe for Parker, Statement Says, but No Figures Are Given.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A statement was given out today by the Democratic national committee, after a consultation between Thomas Taggart, chairman; William F. Sheehan, chairman of the executive committee, and Delancey Nicoll, vice chairman for the east. It says, after discussing the attempt to harmonize the party:

"Our canvass shows that we shall certainly carry by good majorities the states of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and Indiana, and that in addition to these electoral votes, shall have the majority if not all of the electoral votes of the Rocky mountain states. It is impossible at this juncture to predict the outcome in Wisconsin.

"Illinois must also be classed in the doubtful column, for although at this moment our canvass there is imperfect, it it is sufficiently advanced to indicate an unmistakable Republican defection."

CLASS ENMITY DEEPENS, DECLARES EUGENE DEBS

Socialist Candidate Predicts the Disappearance of the Middle Class—Says More Tramps Are Needed.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Eugene V. Debs, presidential candidate of the Socialist party, addressed a meeting which was held here today in the Academy of Music to ratify his nomination. Debs said the economic freedom of the laboring class hinges upon the showing the Socialists may make in the coming election and declared that the enmity between the leisure class and the laboring class is increasing.

"The so-called middle class will cease to exist as soon as the laboring class finds out that it has enough of capitalism," he continued. "You need a few more millionaires and tramps. You will then find that the time has come to shake off the two platforms of the same party which are in the field for election. The nominee of one of these platforms was the choice of J. P. Morgan, the nominee of the other the choice of John D. Rockefeller."

HEAPED COALS OF FIRE ON HEAD OF DESPERATE THIEF

Dr. J. C. Ohail Dressed Injuries of a Burglar Who Fought Him Fiercely.

After struggling with a burglar and overpowering him in his residence early yesterday morning, Dr. J. C. Ohail of Allegheny dressed the injuries of the thief, after the latter had been lodged in Central station. The youthful burglar is Joseph Pofel, aged 29, of 34 Arbuckle alley.

Shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Ohail aroused her husband and declared someone was in the house. Sitting up, Dr. Ohail discovered a man crouched behind the foot of the bed. Springing to the floor, Dr. Ohail jumped on the intruder and for several minutes the two fought all over the room. Mrs. Ohail sat in bed and watched the battle. Breaking away from the grasp of Dr. Ohail, Pofel rushed to a front window and smashed it with his fist, then plunged head-foremost through. Had he succeeded in his endeavor to escape, Pofel would likely have crushed his skull on the pavement, 20 feet below, but Dr. Ohail caught the man by the feet and held him suspended over the street.

John P. Smith of Lawrence avenue, who was on his way home from work, heard Dr. Ohail calling for assistance. Smith summoned Policeman Pat Carroll, who was in Federal street. The trio succeeded in dragging Pofel back into the room, where he fought desperately to get away. He was bleeding from deep gashes in his hands and face and was immediately taken to the lockup. Dr. Ohail, who lives at 23 West Montgomery avenue, followed, after dressing, and attended the injuries of the man who tried to rob him.

Pofel got into the house by jumping from the limb of a tree in the back yard to the sill of a rear window that was unlocked. When searched by the police nothing was found about his clothes. He will get a hearing this morning.

ENGLAND BOUND TO JAPAN

In February, 1902, Lord Lansdowne announced that a treaty had been made between Great Britain and Japan.

By its terms it was agreed that if in the event of war conducted by either of the allies any outside power should join in hostilities against that ally, the other contracting party will come to the other's armed assistance.

MUST APOLOGIZE WITHIN 24 HOURS

English Newspapers and Authorities Make Emphatic Comment.

MAY BE AN ACT OF WAR

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Foreign Minister Lansdowne and M. Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador, both were out of town yesterday and all the government offices in London were closed as usual on Sunday; therefore no official view could be gleamed of the firing by Russian war vessels upon a British fishing fleet in the North sea.

Considering the circumstances in the case the newspapers treat the matter with commendable calmness, but are firm in demands for immediate satisfaction. The Chronicle says:

"The next 24 hours must settle it one way or the other. Only two modes of settlement are possible. Either explanation, apology and generous compensation to the victims' families, or an ultimatum."

The Standard says: "An explanation should be promptly and sternly demanded for the intolerable outrage. The Russian government should be informed that it is expected to recall its ill-starred squadron, first, in order that proper investigation may be held and, second, to keep it out of harm's way for the future."

The skippers of the Moulmin and Mino, J. A. Smith and Solicitor Jackson, arrived in London at 8 o'clock this morning, but beyond confirming the previous story they declined to say anything before consulting the authorities.

Inquiries at Devonport last night showed that no special naval movement had been reported and that Admiral Seymour had no official news of the outrage. Admiral Fremantle, in the course of an interview, said he was unable to believe that it could have been the Baltic fleet which fired on the Hull fishermen, but if so, he added, nothing but the most complete apology would be satisfactory.

Sir Frederick Pollock, an authority on international law, said: "If the facts are as stated it is an act of war. It must mean an ultimatum or an apology within 48 hours or so. It will probably be found, however, that some Russian commander lost his head, suspecting Japanese designs, and that he will be cashiered and an apology ordered."

ENGLISH VESSELS SUNK BY RUSSIAN SQUADRON

with what followed I do not know; the whole thing is a mystery.

"Presently through the mist there appeared the lights of many vessels, big and small. Knowing that the Baltic fleet was en route, we naturally assumed that they were Russians, but I cannot say so for certain. They were signaling one another, and with powerful searchlights spied out every one of our fleet. Suddenly some warship started firing at about 20 boats, which were nearest to them. We at first supposed they were blank shots, and the boatswain of the Tomtit, which was close in, held two big fish out at arm's length. Some say he was offering them to the Russians in fun, and others that he meant to acquaint the Russians with the fact that we were peaceful fishermen, and not disguised enemies.

"In any case, there was no mistaking our occupation, for we were close enough for Russians to see that our men were all engaged in cutting fish. When we realized that the Russians were firing shot, and that men were being wounded, all became terror and confusion. Nets were cut away, steam was gotten up, and the trawlers hurried away as fast as possible.

"Judging by the rapidity of the shots, they were from quick-firing guns. I have seen some of the shots embedded in boats. They are about the diameter but not the length of a big cucumber, and with brass heads.

"What with the darkness, the rain and the glare of searchlights, we were unable to identify the warships. After about half an hour the firing suddenly ceased and the fleet steamed away speedily, in the direction of the English channel."

Capt. Peaker confirms the details of the fate of the trawler Crane and her crew, and speaks with intense indignation of the conduct of the Russians. He says:

"It is impossible that we could have been taken for anything but trawlers. I can only imagine that the Russians lost their heads and blazed away in confusion, and when they discovered their mistake steamed off."

ALL QUIET AT PANAMA.

No Revolt in the Republic and No Prospect of Trouble of Any Kind.

PANAMA, Oct. 23.—(Special Cable.)—There are no indications of a revolt or of political troubles of any kind anywhere on the isthmus, nor is there likely to be any trouble. Everything is quiet and peaceful. There is anxiety for more definite news from Washington regarding the coming of Mr. Taft to settle the port question and to restore Panama's revenues. These are being seriously affected by the arbitrary financial measures of the United States. There are no troubles whatever with the marines at Empire.

BRITAIN COULD ASSEMBLE MIGHTY FLEET QUICKLY

Thirty-Two Battleships and Cruisers Available for Emergency—Mediterranean Fleet Could Supplement Channel Squadron.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1904, by New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The warships which Great Britain could assemble at any point within the English channel at a few hours notice are distributed in three squadrons, known as the Home fleet, the Channel fleet and the Cruiser squadron.

The Home fleet consists of eight battleships and five cruisers.

The Channel fleet consists of six battleships and six cruisers.

The Cruiser squadron consists of seven cruisers.

The commander-in-chief of the Home fleet has complete and continuous command of the home destroyer flotillas. There are thus 32 battleships and cruisers, besides the torpedo destroyers, a class in which the British navy is particularly strong.

The Mediterranean fleet, which could be brought to bear on any hostile fleet passing through or near the Straits of Gibraltar, within two or three days, is composed of 12 battleships, 14 cruisers and 20 torpedo boat destroyers, together with torpedo boats, supplementary vessels, store ships and the like.

During the last 15 years the officers and men of the navy and marines have increased from about 60,000 to 120,000.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 23.—The news which comes from London to the effect that some of the vessels of the Baltic squadron had fired upon and sunk British fishing boats in the North sea and crippled others has been received here with amazement and at first with incredulity. Recognizing the seriousness of the affair, no official will speak concerning it until the full details are known. In private, however, little else is talked about, the news overshadowing interest in the progress of affairs in the east.

It is practically certain that as soon as possible the act of the Russian officer, if it is found he wantonly fired on peaceable fishing boats, will be disavowed and reparation promptly made. It is not believed here that it will result in complications which may not be straightened out by diplomacy.

A high naval officer in discussing the affair said tonight:

"The affair as reputed here is incomprehensible. It is possible that the fleet was engaged in gun practice, though this is improbable. If as reported, the shooting occurred at night. It may have been that the fishing boats refused to give a satisfactory account of themselves and some commander with the cowardly attack on the Port Arthur squadron in mind conceived the idea they were Japanese torpedo boats and opened fire. It is not conceivable that the story of a wanton and unprovoked attack is true. When the admiral in command sends in his report it will put a different face on the affair and it will be found that there is nothing which cannot be settled."

If the Russian admiral has made a report the fact has not been made public. News of the occurrence is awaited with the keenest anxiety by all classes, official and diplomatic, with a full realization of the grave possibilities in the situation.

MOTHER SHOOTS HER OWN SON FOR THIEF

Boy Had Slipped Out to Attend a Dance and She Mistook Him for a Burglar.

John Conley, 15 years old, of McKees Rocks, was shot by his mother yesterday morning and mortally wounded. Mrs. Conley mistook her son for a burglar.

The Conleys live at 511 Catherine street, the father, Thomas J. Conley, owning a wholesale liquor store in Fleming Park. The family retired on Saturday night, but later John slipped out of bed, stole from the house and went to a dance which he was forbidden to attend. He left unlatched the window through which he climbed.

At 2 a. m. Mrs. Conley was awakened by a noise down stairs and listening she concluded it was a burglar trying to open a window. Going down the steps she went into the kitchen and stood watching from the back part of the room.

She saw a man on the porch fumbling with the window. He was raising it up and Mrs. Conley fired through the glass. There was a scream and the supposed burglar fell.

The mother recognized her son's voice and ran screaming out on the porch. The shot awoke her husband, and hearing her cries he hurried down stairs. He and Mrs. Conley, clad in their night clothes, carried the boy to the house of Dr. H. C. Barnhart, a block away.

The bullet entered the left side, near the heart. The boy was immediately carried back home, where he now lies. He was conscious and tried to comfort his weeping mother by taking the blame upon himself and asking her to forgive him for disobeying her.

TWENTY THOUSAND WOUNDED AT HARBIN

Russian Siege Guns Are in Action South of Mukden.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

HARBIN, Oct. 23.—More than 20,000 wounded soldiers have arrived here and are being tended with the greatest care. Every available hand has been set to work in the making of 40,000 shirts for the wounded.

MUKDEN, Oct. 23.—During the bombardment of Shakhe station shells destroyed the water tower which the Japanese were using as an observatory. The Japanese advance guard, after evacuating Shakhe, has gone south. About two miles below Shakhe the Russians discovered extensive entrenchments. The Russian siege guns are beginning to come into action. There was considerable artillery firing October 19 to October 22.

The Japanese have evacuated Shakhe, but it would be premature to regard this as the beginning of a general retreat. It appears rather to be a strategic movement, so as to reinforce and realign their greatly broken front.

Scouts confirm the news brought into the Russian lines by Chinese of a Japanese movement to the eastward, indicating that they have some fresh developments maturing there.

Foster of the McKeesport public schools.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—The most disastrous fire that ever visited the village of Girard occurred this morning when the tannery of Fred Hrehi & Sons was burned. The damage amounts to at least $175,000 on buildings and stock of leather, while the insurance will not amount to more than $100,000. Just how the fire started is a mystery.

Injured in a Car Collision.

WORCESTER, MASS., Oct. 23.—In a rear-end collision between two trolley cars on the Westboro and Marlboro street railway, two and one-half miles west of Westboro today, 18 people were injured. All will recover. Slippery rails are accountable for the accident.

ARMIES RESUME SHARP FIGHTING

Artillery Duel Is in Progress by Japanese and Russians South of Mukden.

CZAR'S LOSSES ARE 60,000 MEN

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

MUKDEN, Oct. 23.—Sharp fighting continues along the front. The Russians are intrenching ground recently occupied by them. There has been a desultory artillery duel throughout the day. The Russian batteries bombarded the portion of the village of Linshinpu occupied by Japanese, as well as Shakhe station and the village of Lomutine, while the enemy bombarded the portion of Linshinpu in the occupation of the Russians and the village of Shakhe.

There is no evidence that the Russian army will rush north, as was the case after the battle at Liao-Yang. In fact, the Russians have another line of defense to fall back on in the event that they are forced out of their present positions. Unless the Japanese take the initiative soon the Russians, it is expected, will resume the offensive and endeavor to drive the Japanese back for the purpose of insuring the safety of their winter quarters, which undoubtedly will be north of Mukden unless a southward advance is successful.

The Japanese prisoners are treated by the Russians with the greatest kindness. At one hospital visited by the Associated Press correspondent, Japanese privates were found in the officers' ward. The army medical corps and the Red Cross societies did splendid work. The wounded were dressed and forwarded to the hospitals with the greatest expedition. The Russian commissariat also was admirably handled. Portable soup kitchens were most useful, being taken under fire to feed the men.

TOKYO, Oct. 23.—Manchurian headquarters reporting by telegraph yesterday says that the number of Russian dead found on the battlefield and interred up to October 22 makes a total of 10,550. Upon this total Russian casualties are estimated to exceed 60,000. The Japanese captured a total of 45 guns during the Shakhe operations. The report of the Manchurian headquarters follows:

"The enumerated spoils, etc., of the battle of Shakhe follow: Prisoners, about 500; enemy's dead left on the field, 10,500; 45 guns, 37 ammunition wagons, 6,020 shells, 5,474 rifles, 78,000 small arms, ammunition, number swords, shovels, axes and tents. Besides the enumerated property the uncounted property, extending over 25 miles, will reach an enormous quantity. The enemy's dead is being interred with military honors. According to the number of dead the Russian casualties are estimated at over 60,000."

RENEWAL OF ATTACKS IS EXPECTED SHORTLY

General Assault by Japs on Port Arthur Predicted for Near Future.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

CHEFOO, Oct. 23.—4:30 P. M.—The Japanese on the afternoon of October 19 resumed their attack on the Russian outer works at Rihlung mountain. After four hours' fighting they succeeded in capturing a number of the Russian trenches and one small hill. It is the belief at Dalny that a general assault on Port Arthur will be made soon.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 24.—A correspondent of the Bourse Gazette has telegraphed to that paper from Chefoo that the Port Arthur squadron is anchored in the roadstead, from which statement there has originated a rumor that the squadron has gone out to sea. Of this report there is no confirmation.

HALTED CZAR'S DISPATCH.

Baltic Fleet Commander Gives Evidence of Ultra-Precaution—Warning to Merchantmen.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Times correspondent at Copenhagen telegraphs as follows:

"On Wednesday evening a telegram from the czar for Admiral Rojestvensky (of the Pacific fleet) arrived in care of the Russian consular agent in the island of Langeland. The consular agent ordered two fishermen in a motor launch to deliver the dispatch. As they approached the admiral's ship searchlights were thrown on the launch and some blank cartridges were fired. The Russians forbade the launch to come nearer, and sent a boat to take the dispatch. Notification has been given that all merchantmen meeting the Baltic fleet must hoist their national flag. A Norwegian steamer, having failed to do so, a blank cartridge was fired to hasten her performance of the ceremony.

"According to Danish newspapers, Russia is about to give an order for warships to be built at Copenhagen."

Furniture Styles from 1723 to 1774 A. D.

Louis Quinze and the Rococo.

Louis XV. is remembered for his reckless expenditures of public moneys, his profligacy and his disregard for the welfare of the French people. Of the style which matured in his reign—the Rococo—there are many varying opinions. It was a new style which developed gradually to meet admirably the requirements of the court of Louis XV.

The Rococo style, as introduced by Messonier, was an evenly balanced arrangement of fanciful shell work, but he soon developed the "contrasted" balance that is now known as one of the striking features of the style. Whatever may be said against Louis XV. furniture, it must be admitted that in abandoning stateliness for luxury the king brought into being the most comfortable modern furniture. Madame Pompadour went so far as to insist on overstuffed furniture, that the uttermost luxury might be secured.

In the Fifth Floor, West, we have a great variety of furniture styles, including suits and odd pieces in Louis Quinze or Rococo, which is particularly pleasing in drawing-room or parlor furniture—Curio Cabinets, Bric-a-Brac Cabinets, Tables, Tetes, Stools, Taborets in gold, mahogany and circassian walnut.

A great lot arrived Friday and will be ready this morning, and while the importation is a goodly-sized one, yet early selection is advisable.

All the Handkerchiefs are pure linen, and there are different styles of initials—hand-embroidered script, block letter and many surrounded by dainty wreath designs. The Handkerchiefs are hemstitched. There are ⅛, ¼ and ½-inch hems.

While the values differ, all in all we should say the average worth is 25c.

Monday, October 24, 1904.

Whether an administration is restored to power or not it has been the custom for ambassadors, as well as cabinet officers, to offer their resignations at the end of the four years, so that the chief executive may be free to make changes if he wishes. The gossip that Joseph H. Choate is to resign as our ambassador to St. James is probably traceable to this custom, but it is not certain that President Roosevelt wishes to appoint Whitelaw Reid in his place. So far as known Mr. Choate has found his present position entirely congenial and he certainly represents our government with ability. He has the means to live in comfort at such an expensive embassy and the incumbent is not so subject to accusations that he is becoming an anglo-maniac as he was earlier in the century.

In proposing another peace conference to the powers it is said that President Roosevelt will not select any date or refer to the existing war, but will simply ask for suggestions for such a meeting. It would be a little singular if Russia, whose influence made The Hague possible, should now refuse to participate in such a gathering because she considers it untimely. One reason for postponing the conference until peace has been declared would be the fact that the present conflict will bring up fresh problems for international action so long as it lasts. It would be surprising if the voyage of the Baltic fleet does not add new complications concerning seizures, coaling rights and the inviolability of the mails. In the meantime there are reports of activity on the part of several nations in adding to the marine force of the contestants and these may afford matters to be adjudicated.

"There will be a considerable deficiency in the postoffice receipts as compared with the expenditures which will be caused by the rural free delivery service. That service, however, is worth all that it costs, and the country is well able to pay for it. The dwellers in the rural districts are entitled to proper mail service, and naturally this is more expensive than in the cities and towns. But the dwellers in the latter are large sharers in the benefits of the rural mail service because they are the correspondents of the people who live in the country. There will therefore be no disposition anywhere to complain of the fact that a deficiency which can easily be met is caused by such service." This quotation is from the Pittsburgh Post. It illustrates how the expenses of the national government are increasing to give the people better service, and it explains how the people can afford it. The reasoning applies with as much force to other branches of the public service as to rural free delivery of mails and confutes the whole Democratic cry about extravagance.

A queer story comes from Boston to the effect that offers of aid to the Agassiz expedition for deep sea sounding work were conditioned by the requirement that it should be known as the Carnegie-Agassiz expedition, which caused the offers to be declined. If there was one place where it might have been expected that the advertising feature would be omitted it was in the administration of a fund established for scientific research. In college or library endowments the advertising feature cannot be altogether omitted since there is a commercial side even to such undertakings, and it is not only proper but desirable that the work done shall be known and identified as such, but no such consideration applies to a fund whose very idea is to relieve science from dependence upon commercialism. It would seem that the only consideration there would be the value of the purpose and the merit of the undertaking. If other considerations are to intervene the value of the fund will be greatly impaired as a genuine aid to science. If in aid of just such unremunerative but important scientific labors as this Agassiz expedition that the existence of the Carnegie scientific fund is desirable.

According to Thomas W. Lawson, who is an authority upon frenzied finance, the Standard Oil interests have come to the aid of the Democratic national committee, and if money will help them out of the hole it will not be lacking. Their latest claim is 277 votes for Parker, or 38 more than enough to elect. Meanwhile the stubborn fact stands out that in order to get a majority they must carry New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, and a state like Indiana or Wisconsin. In the entire list the only state in which their chances are regarded as favorable by experienced observers is Maryland. In New York and West Virginia there is trouble as regards the Republican state ticket, but none at all as regards the presidential ticket. Throughout the west all reports agree that there is a popular landslide in favor of Roosevelt, who will run far ahead of state nominees of the Republican party. Democratic expectations of carrying Montana are based upon the popularity of Joseph K. Toole, the Democratic candidate for governor. It is not impossible that Mr. Toole may be elected, but Roosevelt and Fairbanks are certain to have a big majority, to which many Democratic votes will contribute. Any one who thinks that Parker has a chance can get all the bets he wants in the Helena poolrooms at odds of 5 to 2. Such is the feeling throughout the west that it is altogether probable that there will be a record-making popular majority for Roosevelt.

Party Pledges.

If they are honorable men, the action of councilmen upon the franchise ordinances will be controlled by the following party pledges:

Citizens Party Platform, Jan. 13, 1902:—To oppose the granting of further franchises to any corporation making use of our public streets for a period longer than 25 years. To demand that all corporations to which franchises may have been granted, or which may in the future receive franchises, shall pay a tax of 3 per cent of gross receipts during the first five years, and thereafter 5 per cent during the life of said franchise.

Citizens Party Platform, in the mayoralty campaign of 1903:—The taxation and regulation of all franchises and their extensions.

Republican Party Platform, January 6, 1903:—Resolved, That this convention declares itself in favor of the reasonable and proper taxation, for municipal purposes, of all corporations enjoying franchises from the city, of any kind whatever. Also in favor of the limitation of all franchises granted by the city in the future to a period not greater than 50 years, and that all such franchises and all renewals shall be subject to reasonable and proper compensation, terms, conditions and restrictions.

The votes of councilmen will show whether they represent the city and are acting with party honesty, or whether they have yielded to the inducements of the lobby.

The Baltic Squadron Opens Fire.

The Russian Baltic squadron has begun its cruise with an astonishing performance, the meaning of which baffles conjecture. It appears that shortly after midnight Friday, the squadron fell in with an English fishing fleet and after looking them over with searchlights opened fire upon them, killing or wounding a number of the fishermen and sinking at least one of the vessels. The bombardment is reported to have lasted about 20 minutes. The squadron of Russian ships were steering in line and the firing did not begin until the bulk of the squadron had passed, and then it ran all along the line. While it is impossible to assign any rational motive for this horrible affair, the sole circumstance that suggests a possible explanation is that a trawler observed what were taken to be torpedo boats approaching and steamed away, whereupon the firing began. It is possible the Russian admiral construed the trawler's behavior as an attempt to evade his exercise of the right of search and was determined to give exemplary notice of the fact that the Russian navy proposes to exact recognition of Russia's belligerent rights to the uttermost degree. But the whole affair is so mysterious that judgment should be reserved until Russian explanations are received. Unless those explanations are quite satisfactory and are accompanied by every reparation which the Russian government can offer, the Baltic squadron may have war in plenty right where it is without having to go a mile nearer to the east than it has already gone.

Saturday's Rallies.

There was no suggestion of apathy about the big Republican meeting in Kenwood lawn Saturday evening. On the contrary, there was every indication that Pittsburgh and Allegheny county are fully awake to their duty to roll up the largest majority in their history for the Republican tickets, national, state and local. Chairman Flinn made a speech that was to the point. He was followed by Charles Emory Smith, former ambassador to St. Petersburg, an orator of national reputation, whose expose of the Democratic platform and the fallacies of Candidate Parker was one of the masterly speeches of this national campaign. Mr. Smith pointed out that while the Democratic platform declares that "protection is robbery," Judge Parker's only plea has been to let it go on under a Democratic bailee. While the platform suggests that the acquisition of the Panama canal strip was by dishonorable means and Parker terms it robbery of a friendly state, he at the same time declares that if elected president he will go on with the construction of the canal. This Mr. Smith properly characterized as an inconsistent position, for the disposition of any good citizen who came into possession of stolen property would be to make restitution and right the wrong that had been done. Mr. Smith also paid a tribute to the courage and fidelity of President Roosevelt that won the hearty approval of his Pittsburgh audience.

Congressman Dalzell, well known to home audiences, discussed the tariff issue in a masterly manner and the responses of the audience left no doubt that they regard it as important and the tariff a thing to be defended jealously. J. McF. Carpenter, known as a Democrat prior to Bryan's attack on the credit of the country, closed the meeting with a discussion of the money issue. Mr. Carpenter made plain the reasons that led him to leave his party and why no consistent gold standard man can now support the Democratic ticket. Though the Democratic orators say there is no money issue in this campaign and though Candidate Parker has declared for the gold standard, the speaker made it apparent that his former party cannot be trusted to remain "safe and sane."

This enthusiastic Pittsburgh meeting was more than matched by the big demonstration at Wheeling that gave welcome to the second appearance in West Virginia of Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, Republican candidate for vice president. The war-born state has had few political demonstrations equal to that one. It was participated in by Pittsburgh organizations and clubs from various towns of West Virginia. It left no room for doubt as to how that state will vote in November, if any such doubt had existed previously. It gave assurance that West Virginia is thoroughly aroused and fully awake to its interests. The state pride argument in connection with the candidacy of Mr. Davis has lost any hold it might have gained on the West Virginians and they are going to vote for the policies that have made the wonderful development of their state possible. West Virginia has no more use for free trade than Pennsylvania.

The Canal Issue.

One result of the Democratic attacks on the administration for its part in the negotiations which made the building of the isthmian canal possible, will be that the people will have an opportunity to learn all about the inception of this great undertaking. The secession of Panama has been kept to the front in this campaign as an instance of the arbitrary conduct of the president in defying the law to secure his object. This attainment seemed so hopeless and was so long delayed that they assume that the means to secure it were illegal, notwithstanding the repeated recital of the circumstances which reflect no discredit on the administration. In the meantime the assailing party dare not raise the issue of the canal building itself, for the American people are too unanimously in its favor.

When Senator Culberson read the letter of Secretary Hay to Dr. Herran, advising him that a reasonable time had expired and urging action on the treaty, he hoped that it would appear incousistent with the message of the president after the revolution. But the congress of Columbia continued the agitation over the treaty up to its adjournment on the eve of the revolution, so that there would have been no excuse for this government to turn to the Nicaragua plan in despair of making any arrangements with Colombia. While negotiations were actually pending it would have been inexcusable to withdraw and abandon our interest in the matter. But when the Colombian legislature had adjourned the reasonable time specified in the canal legislation had certainly expired and we would have been warranted in making a proposition to Nicaragua had not the revolution given a fresh opportunity of securing the Panama route.

Only a little over two weeks remain of the campaign and then the work of building the canal can progress without inquiry how we secured the right to build it. The admission of President Roosevelt that he hoped some such revolution might prepare the way was shared in by thousands of loyal Americans, and there was nothing unseemly about it except as it might be used for campaign purposes. The public approves the acts of President Roosevelt and would be ready to indorse them at the polls. If Democrats wished to place sole reliance on Panama as an issue there would be no doubt at all about it, but the indications are that the administration will be indorsed for all the acts which have made it signal in American history.

Washington Defenses.

Plans are already being made for the next maneuvers of the military forces, which this time are to engage in attacks on Washington and a defense of the national capital. Two squadrons of the navy are to enter Chesapeake bay and attempt to get within bombarding distance of the city, while efforts will be made to land troops so as to capture it. In the meantime the artillery of the Chesapeake district is to valiantly defend the city and repel the invaders if possible. The war game will afford an opportunity to test the value of submarine boats as well as other machinery of modern warfare, and some valuable practice is possible.

Washington is better defended than it was when the British threatened it in 1814, and finally looted and burned the city. Then the army for the defense of Washington consisted largely of militia, which had not been assembled, and it was easy for the British admiral to overcome the handful of regulars that opposed him. Now it is said that mines and forts would amply protect the city from a large force, whether from the land or the sea. But as the seat of government it is entitled to strong fortifications, especially as it has once been conquered by a foreign foe. In the civil war it was the center of military activity and the federal government constantly feared that it would be attacked, owing to its proximity to the confederate capital. Those who are inclined to think of it as a peaceful city need only be reminded of events in history and of its importance to an invading enemy of sufficient strength to make a landing on the continent, to understand that a study of its defense is desirable.

The publication of the plans for these maneuvers at this time, however, will give the Democrats an opportunity to increase their outcry against militarism. If similar precautions had been taken early in the century, Admiral Cockburn's force could never have gained access to the city, and if the lesson of the sacking in 1814 had been accepted the city might have been properly fortified before the opening of the civil war. Washington is becoming one of the most attractive cities in the world and the streets planned for military defense by l'Enfant only added to its esthetic possibilities. The topography of the city is such that it could be rendered well nigh impregnable and still not mar its development as the seat of the great peace nation.

Chairman Hall of the Democratic state committee continues his pursuit of the congressional and legislative districts to the exclusion of any effort for the national ticket. But Pennsylvania Republicans will have themselves to blame if they let him get away with anything in this state, where there is nothing to watch except these same districts.

Germany has been learning a few war lessons in the far east, if reports can be trusted. One of these is that fighting in masses is out of date. It was out of date with the American army years ago.

Candidate Higgins is looming up in Western New York, his home section, in a manner that has caused the prophets to revise their early estimates. He is now picked as a sure winner.

The Merchants and Manufacturers trade boomers who arrived home Saturday report a most successful week in Ohio. There is no resisting the Pittsburgh man when after business.

Contemplating the losses of 80,000 in the battle of the Shakhe river, the battle of Liao-Yang does not seem as terrible as it did two weeks ago.

Bryan says Parker is a poor stick, but it is necessary to support him to hold the party organization for future use. Queer support.

Judge Parker is beginning to talk at last, but so far from making matters better his every speech helps to clinch his defeat.

After this touch of "squaw winter" there should be a period of Indian summer.

West Virginia admires Uncle Gassaway, but it cannot stand free trade.

Talked of in Gotham

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Notwithstanding the denial that there is any intention of snubbing John B. McDonald, the contractor who built the subway, there is a suspicious absence of his name in connection with the arrangements for the celebration of the opening of the new underground system. To the average New Yorker McDonald seems to be pretty nearly the totality in the subway building. He made the plans, convinced the moneyed men of the practicability of the affair as a dividend producer and finally bossed the job through to practical completion. Other men furnished the money, but it was McDonald who furnished the brains. It is, therefore, difficult for the average man to see how there could be a subway celebration without McDonald occupying the center of the stage. It is like Hamlet, with the melancholy Dane relegated to the ranks of the supers. Nevertheless, there is to be a great banquet at Sherry's to celebrate the opening of the subway. Seventy-five men will be present. They will include leading financiers, prominent railway officials and men conspicuous in the social and financial world. Mr. McDonald may be given an inconspicuous place at the foot of the table, but the limelight will not be turned in his direction if the other fellows can help it. However, there are a lot of people who are handing out bouquets to the engineer and even this attempt to keep him in the background is helping to make him and his work more prominent in the eyes of the general public. And no matter what the outcome of the affair, Mr. McDonald is secure in one thing—the enhancement of his reputation as an engineer as a result of the great work. No one else will ever be able to take that from him, and history will give him his proper place among those who helped in the world's progress, and he will be remembered when those who are jealous of him and his success are forgotten.

New Captain of the Watch.

For the purpose of suppressing any midnight outbreaks or attempted escapes in the zoological preserves in Bronx park, an elaborate system has been devised by William T. Hornaday, director, who has placed W. H. Costian in charge, to be known as the "captain of the watch." Powers vested in the captain of the watch at night make him the chief of police in the animal city. He has power to deal as he sees fit with offending bears, lions, snakes or other animals or reptiles, according to the regulations made for his guidance; but no provision seems to have been made for cases where the animal happening to be at large sees fit to dispute the right of absolute domain of the captain of the watch. In case of the escape of any animal, Capt. Costian, who has headquarters in the second story of the service building, only has to sound a general alarm on the private telephone which connects all the buildings. Failing in that, he has the connecting tubes, and, as a last resort, his series of whistles will bring out all the keepers and attendants on duty at night, as well as the police at the Bronx park station who happen to be on duty.

Wonder if the Judge Believes This?

Judge Parker's election is assured, according to the astronomical calculations of a seer, given in the New York Idler, the first number of which has just been published. The seer says:

"Mars, representing the office in the judge's nomination chart, is directly applied to by the moon first, denoting that the voting element on Mr. Parker's side of the issue has the office in hand. The further progress of the moon connects with the sun, lord of the figure, Mr. Parker's significator, and carries the office to him."

Still there will be a lot of people who will want the votes counted for fear the seer had his dates mixed.

New Arcade to Open Monday.

The newly-constructed arcade in Lexington avenue will be opened tomorrow. Already conceded to be one of the finest structures of its kind yet built, the arcade was made necessary by the fact that Sixty-ninth street is congested with traffic at all hours of the day. Constructed entirely of glass, the Lexington avenue front is capped by a massive dome of glass, which extends over the whole building, and fills the interior with daylight. The arrangement of the interior allows of three immense galleries, lighted in this manner, and, including the new addition to the main building, erected in Fifty-ninth street, more than 6,000 square feet of floor space are added to each floor by these additions.

Teaching Immigrants to Be Americans.

With the object of preparing Italian and Hebrew immigrants for American citizenship, courses of Sunday evening lectures in Yiddish and Italian have been started in the several localities of the city where the population warrants by the free lecture bureau of the department of education. Several of the typical lectures delivered this evening were: "Opportunities for Italians in the United States," by Dr. Alebreto Kerbacker of the Italian consulate, at public school No. 25, Mulberry and Bayard streets. At public school No. 7, Christie and Hester streets, Paul Abelson, in his course on "The Builders of America," told the Hebrews of Washington and the men of the revolution. "The Development of New York City" was treated of by Dr. Luigi Roversi of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, at public school No. 31, One Hundred and Forty-fifth street and Mott avenue.

New Ways to Get Out of Brooklyn.

Seven lines of trolley cars will cross the Williamsburg bridge when that structure is opened to street car traffic on November 1. These are the Nostrand avenue, Reid avenue, Broadway, Bushwick avenue, Hamburg avenue and Grand street lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, and the Franklin avenue line of the Coney Island and Brooklyn railroad. There will be three classes of service—cars to Manhattan direct without change, shuttle cars on the bridge loop from end to end of the structure only, and a belt line service from midnight to 6 o'clock in the morning from the Broadway ferries to the Manhattan terminal. The Nostrand and Franklin avenue lines will be operated as a through service all day and all night.

The Real Question.

The Hon. William H. Sowden, the Republican candidate for congress in the Berks-Lehigh district, challenges the Hon. Marcus Crocus Kline, his Democratic opponent, to say whether or not he believes protection is robbery. Of course the Democratic candidate believes protection is robbery; he is running on a national platform which says so. What remains to be ascertained is whether or not the majority of the people of a district which has been made prosperous by protection think so.—Philadelphia Press.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Have you ever been out in Greene county, familiarly called little Greene?

If not, you should go, and not be too slow about it, for you will be all the better for a sojourn there, and that which does one good should not be neglected.

Some folks have a notion that the natives are still voting for Jackson out there, and that the log cabin is still the popular style of dwelling, and that telegraph and telephones are held to be hoodoos.

This is all wrong, as you will see by making a tour of the county from Jacktown to Carmichaels, or in any other direction. And as for hoop-poles and tanbark there are none in sight.

But some folks seem to prefer a joke, or even an untruth, to a fact.

The fact is that Greene county is as fairly out of the woods as any other county in the state, and not afraid to place its record beside that of any other in the country.

And as for wealth—clean cash—it probably leads the list, if population is taken into account. The banks in Waynesburg alone have something like $5,000,000 of deposits, and there is scarcely a landowner who hasn't a bank account with a balance on the right side.

* * * * *

The reason that little Greene is not more widely known is that it has no through railroad. This state of affairs will not continue much longer, as it now seems to be a settled fact that the Wabash is going to build a line through this section to connect with its tidewater lines, and unless all signs fail work will be commenced not later than next spring.

The only wonder is that one or more roads were not built through there long ago, for the whole county is underlaid with excellent coal.

And you may not know that this county supplies a large part of the gas consumed in Pittsburgh and adjoining towns. The pumping station operated by the Carnegie Company is probably the largest in the whole country, while that of the Philadelphia Company is a good second. These are both located on Ten Mile creek, not far from Waynesburg.

There seems to be no marked decrease in the supply of gas, although it has been flowing for several years. It would flow into Pittsburgh, but it has been found to be more economical to pump it through the mains, because many times as much can be forced through a pipe as will flow through it.

Almost every acre of land in the entire county is under lease for gas. This alone pays as much as the land would rent for.

* * * * *

While the gas feature is very important, yet it is only a trifle as compared with the coal rights. These are bought outright, and run from $10 to $100 an acre, while those who still hold their coal lands expect to get even more, for the coal is of superior quality, much of it being well adapted to coking.

It was the sale of these rights that brought so much money into the county and swelled the bank deposits so enormously.

But before either coal or gas were known to exist in paying quantities, this county was comparatively wealthy, ranking next to Washington county in the production of fine wool. Nor has the wool business died out, nor the grade of sheep deteriorated, as may be seen from the sheep and wool records.

And while there is so much wealth under the ground, the surface is hardly surpassed as farming land. It is rolling, rather high rolling in places, yet by far the larger part may be tilled easily and with profit, for it is wonderfully productive. In spite of the drouthy weather and early frosts the corn crop is as fine as could be asked, which means plenty of fat hogs and cattle to sell when prices are right.

The fact of the matter is that Greene county hasn't anything to complain about, and that is probably the reason it hasn't been heard of more frequently.

Kickers and growlers make a lot more noise than do contented, busy people.

* * * * *

If you haven't been in Waynesburg for half a dozen years you won't know the place; so great and so many are the changes that have taken place. Instead of the old-fashioned county-seat town you will find one supplied with all modern conveniences.

Even Main street, the grade of which was thought to have been established when the earth was created, has been regraded and paved from end to end, and that in spite of a lot of hard kicking by those whose houses would be left on a high bank. But none of these are complaining now.

That long, humpy-humpy lane leading up the hillside from the depot to the court house is now a well graded street, paved with brick, with sawed stone sidewalks. It doesn't seem to be half as steep as it used to be, nor nearly as long and tiresome as when it was a mud road with paths of ashes, flagstone and here and there a patch of brick on the sides.

This, however, does not cover all the improvements made on the old thoroughfare. Every house, on either side, has been remodeled, while many of the lots then vacant are occupied by new houses, and good ones, too.

In short, there is scarcely a residence on these regraded streets that has not been reconstructed and made to compare to the new order of things.

* * * * *

While there has been a great deal of improvement in the old town, the new town is simply a wonder. By the new town is meant the suburbs of the old town. Streets have been extended in every direction and new ones laid out. These have been graded and paved, and are now lined with elegant houses. Elegant is the word. Some are of brick, some of stone and some of wood, but all are modern in style and ranging in cost from $5,000 to $25,000.

These figures indicate that there is nothing common nor tawdry about these houses, which distinguish it from the boom town.

The people have long felt the want of a through railroad and are given to much figuring as to what they have lost by not having one. After awhile they will probably be figuring on what they gained. Had they had the railroad facilities they desired, the chances are that the town would have had a boom growth, and instead of the present fine streets and elegant residences they would have had cheap or tawdry houses all mixed up in a harum-scarum sort of way.

No doubt there will be something of a boom when the railroad comes, but the style of the town has been fixed and a boom growth will have to conform to it, so that, in the long run, Waynesburg may be much the gainer by the long-postponed coming of a through train.

* * * * *

But with all their complaining, the people of Greene county do not forget that they have the best equipped narrow gauge railroad in the whole country; nor does the Panhandle company, which operates it, forget that it is the best paying bit of road in its whole system. The company can well afford to keep it in first-class condition.

The passenger traffic on this short line is something wonderful. But then you must remember that Greene county folks are great travelers. They have the money, and people who have the price do a good deal of traveling.

This little road, while as picturesque and as proverbial dog's hind leg, or the dog's proverbial hind leg, it is most picturesque and as comfortable as the best. All that stuff about passengers being made dizzy or seasick on account of being whirled around so often and suddenly carried up so high and then down so low is pure bosh.

Mr. Elbertus, who has been over the mountains and across the seas, said he had never traveled over a more interesting and altogether pleasing railroad, and could recall but few places that presented more varied and more entrancing views.

So you may as well stop poking fun at little Greene, for it doesn't mind it, and you are liable to get the laugh for your pains.

Getting in the Crops

AN EXCESS OF APPLES.

Thousands of bushels of apples are going to waste this fall, farmers permitting many of them to rot on the ground. This year, while the crop of apples is large, the fruit is not perfect and in some orchards the ground is covered with windfalls.

The apples on the ground might be made into cider and jelly, but the farmers claim that even if this were done the low price of cider would not pay them for their trouble in picking the apples up and taking them to the cider mill.

Many farmers, being short of corn, are feeding apples to their hogs. Farmers also say there is a small supply of cider barrels, and aver that it would cost more to buy a barrel than the cider it would contain is worth. —Reveille Echo.

The apple crop in this section is the largest in years and thousands of bushels of fruit are rotting on the ground, for there is no market for them and they won't keep for winter use. As we pass some orchards where the finest of our fall apples lie plentifully scattered beneath the trees, we feel sorry that the poor boys and girls in the large cities, who never saw such a sight and never got enough to eat at any time, could not be turned loose in these orchards and revel in the enjoyment of eating the juicy apples and take as many as they could carry home to their mothers and little brothers and sisters who, too, do not know what a juicy apple tastes like fresh off the tree.—Punxsutawney News.

POULTRY PERILS.

A hurry call was sent in to the police at an early hour Monday morning to come for some chicken thieves who were paying a visit to a hen house on High street. The police responded gallantly, only to find the a skunk was on hand in all his glory and already made way with six members of the hen family.—Johnsonburg Press.

One night last week a mink got in a chicken coop and killed nine nice, full-grown young chickens for James F. Wills. This is a time of year such measly varmints get into chicken coops and kill nice chickens, when persons have them raised and ready for market if the coops are not shut up well to keep them out.—Correspondent Lewistown Gazette.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

What it Used to Be and What it is at the Present Time.

(From Elihu Root's Buffalo Speech.)

There was a Democratic party before great upheaval and political realignment of the civil war which had political principles—party that believed in a strict construction of the Constitution and the confinement of national power within the narrowest possible limits. It opposed and destroyed the national bank of the United States; it denied the right of congress to appropriate moneys for internal improvements, or to enact protective tariffs, or to interfere with the extension of slavery, because it is believed that the Constitution granted no power to do these things. Dominated by the master minds of the south, it was vigorous, able and competent to govern. It annexed Louisiana; it seized upon Florida; it made war upon Mexico; it enforced the fugitive slave law; with fire and sword it carried slavery across Missouri on to the virgin soil of Kansas and Nebraska, and when the awakened conscience of the north had decreed that its rule should end, with splendid audacity it welcomed the ruin of the Union which it had so long governed.

Since the civil war there has been no such Democratic party. There has been an opposition, organized under the name of the Democratic party. It has been composed of incoherent and warring factions, agreeing upon no principle, faithful to no principle, believing in no principle, and held together solely by a desire to turn the Republican party out of office and secure the offices in its place. There is nothing in common between the old-fashioned gold standard business men of the east, who call themselves Democrats, and the Populistic followers of Mr. Bryan in the west, who call themselves Democrats; while the representatives of the south, elected without reference to any national issues, but with sole reference to the questions arising from the presence there of the black race, agree some of them with Republican doctrines and some with ancient Democratic doctrines, and some with new Populistic doctrines. For 40 years the controlling motive which has shaped Democratic platforms has been the desire to catch the public fancy of the moment, and their only consistent rule of action has been to affirm what Republicans deny and deny what Republicans affirm.

Eye of the Owl.

Dr. W. F. Beyer and John Stauffer were out hunting last Saturday. Together they shot three gray squirrels and a large horned owl. When Dr. Beyer discovered the owl it was being pestered by a half dozen crows that seemed to take delight in the discomfiture of their old enemy. The owl, being able to see well at night, attacks the crow while it is asleep and feeds upon his carcass. The crow being a wise bird, knows that the owl cannot see well in daytime, and takes advantage of his helplessness to make life a burden to him, although incapable of doing him serious injury. The owl has a most wonderful and beautiful eye, being so constructed as to enable him to forage successfully at night. Dr. Beyer dissected one of the owl's eyes and pronounced it a most marvelous piece of mechanism.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

CHINESE FORM A CADET CORPS

Pittsburgh Reform Association Will Teach Local Chinamen Military Tactics.

HISTORY OF THE MOVEMENT

Fifty Chinamen volunteed to form the nucleus of the Chinese Reform Cadets of Pittsburgh in Moorehead hall, Second avenue and Grant street, last night, and within two weeks will be under the tuition of a man efficient to teach them line formation, marching and military maneuvers and tactics in general. The selection of uniforms has been deferred until the arrival of the commander, who is to be selected by Gen. Homer Lee of San Francisco, an American, who is commander-in-chief of Chinese Reform Cadet organizations throughout the country.

The Chinese Reform association of Pittsburgh, which has been in existence for a year with headquarters in Second avenue, near Grant street, turned out 300 strong last night in Moorehead hall to listen to addresses by Goy Maine, J. M. Singleton and Au Gob, members of the New York city organization who are making a tour in the interests of the national organization. The purpose of the Chinese reform movement is to awaken China and place it on equality with other nations of the world. The cause is represented by a blue flag with three white stars, representing knowledge, freedom and equality. The origin and occasion for the organization is best told in the words of Goy Maine, who gave the following explanation last night:

Chinese Reform Movement.

"The Chinese reform movement had its origin six years ago, when the dowager empress gave the emperor full imperial power. The emperor was the head of the strong Conservative party of China, but had heard much of the famous reformer, Kwong, who lived in Southern China. He sent his tutor, also a strong Conservative, to interview him, with the result that the tutor became a confirmed reformer and upon returning so interested the emperor that he sent for Kwong.

"Kwong impressed him with the fact that China was being retarded from advancement by the heavy tax imposed upon Chinamen for the support of the millions of Mongolians in the country, who, because of their birth, lived solely upon the revenue wring out of the Chinamen. It was the mere fact that the family in succession to the throne were Mongolians that established this practice, which kept the country poverty-stricken. He induced the emperor to cut off the tax, to turn the temples into schools, to establish a department of agriculture, a national board of trade and a board of manufacture.

"The Mongolians at once appealed to the dowager empress, declaring that their means had been taken from them and that they had no knowledge of agriculture or mechanics whereby to gain an existence. It was then that the dowager empress again took command of affairs, and the world was informed that the emperor was weak-minded and unable to care for the responsibilities reposed in him. All the newly-established reforms were vetoed and the old practices re-established. Six associate reformers were beheaded, while the others flew for their lives.

Emperor Appealed to England.

"The emperor, however, stood firm, and hurried Kwong off to England to appeal to the prime minister for aid. Kwong was informed by the prime minister of England that the Boer war was engrossing the attention of all England and that the time was inopportune for any assistance from that country. Kwong then decided to begin from the bottom and educate the Chinese people in the reform movement. He went to Vancouver and there established the first Chinese Reform association three years ago. Today we have 84 branches in the United States and 48 branches in other countries.

"The purpose of the order is to open schools in China and abroad for Chinamen, to teach them military tactics and to encourage Chinamen abroad to send money home with which to establish schools and military academies in China. We do not introduce religion of any kind in our organization and are endeavoring to have our nation adopt reform ideas by a campaign of education. There is no effort to instigate a revolution. We can accomplish our purpose by peaceful means, as all the officials of the empire are in sympathy with us with the exception of the empress dowager, and we trust that when she dies our cause will be heard and given place in the future destiny of China.

"We are publishing two papers in San Francisco and one in New York city in the interests of the cause, and have over 5,000,000 followers in our native country and abroad. Military organizations and schools are being rapidly established in all parts of the world, and by these means and by the return home of educated Chinamen from this and other countries we hope to enlighten the people to the justice of our demands."

Temperance Man Made Addresses.

John G. Woolley, candidate for president on the Prohibition ticket in 1900, addressed three audiences on "Good Citizenship" in this vicinity yesterday. In the morning he spoke in the First United Presbyterian church, Allegheny; in the afternoon he addressed the Sewickley Y. M. C. A., and in the evening spoke in the Sixth United Presbyterian church, North Highland avenue. His talks were along temperance lines and large audiences greeted him.

Believes Copper Outlook Is Bright.

James Siegel and Frederick Lewishon passed through Pittsburgh last night in the private car "Courier" on their way back to New York. The rest of their party remained in St. Louis. They had been to Duckworth, Tenn., to inspect copper properties. Mr. Lewishon said the visible supply of copper is lessening every day and that if the revival of business should be as extensive as expected copper will go to 14 cents a pound.

Gas Explosion Causes Fire.

A $300 fire in the cigar factory of Alexander Kramer threatened to wipe out a row of frame buildings in Fifth avenue, between Brady and Moultrie streets, about 9 o'clock last night. The fire originated from a gas explosion. Kramer and his family, who live on the second floor, were out of the city last night and will return today to find their home in ashes.

Rumored Sale of Road.

It was reported yesterday that the charter for the Allenport-Roscoe Electric railway has been sold to the Pittsburgh Railways Company. The rights-of-way have been taken. The charter includes the right-of-way up the valley along the Monongahela river to California and Coal Center.

Played Solitaire Hockey.

George Dohlar of Dickson street, Allegheny, who is thought to be demented, was arrested on California avenue yesterday afternoon while playing an imaginary game of hockey. He was locked up and an investigation into his sanity will be made today.

RIVER TOO COLD TO SUICIDE; ARRESTED AND PUT TO BED

Peter Bysack, a Pole, who says he lives in the Thirteenth ward, walked into the Allegheny river at the foot of Fourteenth street last night, presumably to commit suicide. When he got in waist deep he found the water too cold for comfort and waded out. He was arrested, undressed, rubbed down and put to bed.

COW IN POLICE CELL GIVES BIRTH TO CALF, CAUSING LEGAL TANGLE

If there is a Solomon in this vicinity here is his opportunity to declare his profound wisdom and judgment. Last Tuesday morning a fine Jersey cow was arrested on Penn avenue near Thirty-fourth street, for vagrancy, violating a city ordinance, or some other crime within the jurisdiction of the police, and taken to the Forty-third street police station. The prisoner resisted arrest.

Yesterday while still in the lockup the cow gave birth to a calf. Question: Who owns the calf? Wagonman Thomas Sheehy says "he saw it first." His claim is not allowed by his brother officers. George Hampton and James Hoban, who arrested the cow, claim equal shares, but the sergeant says the animal goes into the treasury of the police pension fund. It is conceded without dissension that should the owner of the cow be located, he could not claim the calf, as it is an institution created under police protection; besides, the feed bill on the cow is enough to frighten off any pretentious owner. It was said last night that unless some definate disposition can be determined upon for both cow and calf, efforts will be made to have the courts appoint Peter Hermes guardian over both.

NO RELIEF FROM CROWDED CARS

Judge Reed Declares It Is Impossible to Get Rid of This Nuisance.

MELLON LINES TO BE BUILT

"It is absolutely impossible to avoid crowding street cars during the early morning and early evening hours, when people are going to and from work, and we cannot put on enough cars during those hours to prevent crowding," said Judge J. H. Reed, president of the Philadelphia Company, last night, when asked if the company had formulated any measures for the relief of the patrons of the Pittsburgh railways system, and to eradicate the general dissatisfaction arising from the kind of service now afforded.

"We have made some improvement within the last couple of weeks," he added. "Part of the new power plant at Brunots island has been put in operation and the entire plant will be running within 30 days. We will then have enough power to run all the cars on the entire system, but no matter how much power we may have, we cannot run enough cars in the morning, when people are going to work, and in the evening, between 5:30 and 6:30 o'clock, to prevent the cars from being crowded. People flock out of office buildings and stores by the thousands and they all want to go home at the same time."

"Would it be possible with another route to the East End, via the Grant boulevard, to satisfactorily handle all traffic offered the company?" he was asked.

Business Has Fallen Off.

"It ought to. It will enable us to carry the people home more quickly and more comfortably, but as I said before, we cannot help crowding the cars," was Judge Reed's reply.

"Is it not true that cars are crowded during all hours of the day, as well as during the rush hours in the morning and evening?"

"No. There is plenty of room during the day, except in the rush hours."

"How many cars, approximately, are operated in Allegheny county regularly on all the lines of the company, and are there as many cars in operation now as there were a year ago?"

"I do not know just how many cars are in operation now, but I think that there are just about as many cars now as a year ago, but hardly any more. That there are not more cars is due to the fact that business has fallen off considerably in the last year and the cars are not needed. I attribute the falling off in business to the fact that there are a great many people out of work."

"If the company can afford to secure control of rival franchises which threaten to make rival lines, could it not also afford to increase the amount of service rendered the public?"

"The company is increasing its service as fast as the demands of the public require it."

Will Build Mellon Lines.

"Does the company propose to avail itself of any of the franchises secured within the past three years and which are now lying idle—the Mellon franchises in Allegheny, for instance?"

"The company will build the lines in Allegheny for which franchises were secured by our company from the Mellons," said Judge Reed. "The company will build every one of those lines, including the one in Ridge avenue."

"How many cars are operated as night cars and why is it necessary to charge 10 cents on night cars and only 5 cents on day cars?"

"Night cars do not pay, even at 10 cents a fare, and the company is losing money operating them. They are not run for profit, but simply for the accommodation of the public. I cannot give you the number of the cars."

Judge Reed was asked if the report that John Murphy, general superintendent of the Philadelphia Railways Company, was going to be ousted to give way to a Philadelphia man, in order to improve the service.

"The story is without foundation," said Judge Reed. "Mr. Murphy will not resign, neither will he be removed."

Fire in a Cellar.

A fire among some rubbish in the cellar of the house of Overton Day, 1519 Webster avenue, caused an alarm yesterday morning. The damage was trifling.

THINKS TARIFF NEEDS REVISING

Mr. Carnegie Expresses Sympathy With the Views of Judge Parker.

BELIEVES RUSSIA WILL WIN

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Oct. 23.

When Andrew Carnegie arrived in New York today his mind was full of the political situation and he was anxious for news that he had missed for a week. Mr. Carnegie absolutely refused to talk on any but general subjects. He declined to say when he will visit Pittsburgh, and it is not known whether he will be in the Iron City on Founder's day. His reticence on the subject adds plausibility to a report that he does not expect to visit Pittsburgh again until the buildings of the technical school are ready for dedication.

All attempts to draw from Mr. Carnegie any expression on business also failed. He seemed willing to discuss only politics and governmental affairs.

"What do you think of the revision of the tariff as proposed by Judge Parker?" he was asked.

"I echo the views of Judge Parker. I am somewhat of a tariff reformer myself. I think that the duties should be revised. In fact, I advocated years ago the reduction of the tariff on steel rails from $28 to $7 a ton. If I were president I would revise the tariff, I believe, as Judge Parker says, in taking away the duties from industries which do not need protection and giving it to industries which do."

"Mr. Cleveland, in his speech at Carnegie hall last week, said the present tariff permitted American manufacturers to sell goods more cheaply abroad than they could do in this country."

"Mr. Cleveland," answered Mr. Carnegie, "is a great and good man, and his words always express his sincere convictions. There are times, however, owing to the sharp competition, when it is necessary for American manufacturers to sell in foreign markets for what they can get."

Asked concerning the Panama situation, Mr. Carnegie said that he was delighted to hear that the president had sent Judge Taft to the isthmus.

"What do you think of the ultimate outcome of the struggle between Russia and Japan?" was asked.

"There can be only one result," replied Mr. Carnegie. "My sympathy is always more or less with the under dog. It is all very sad. Russia will ultimately win. It should be borne in mind, too, that Russia did not make the first attack. Russia is a sincere friend of peace."

Speaking of the drafting of a note to the powers by John Hay, secretary of state, Mr. Carnegie said that it was with great pleasure that he learned that Mr. Hay was to be retained in the cabinet in the next administration. As Lincoln said to Stanton, 'He knows what he is talking about.'"

Mr. Carnegie was accompanied by his wife and daughter. They drove to their home in Fifth avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder were also passengers on the Celtic.

Mr. Carnegie was informed that because the Celtic had arrived one hour too late on Saturday night to enter the port and had to remain at anchor in quarantine, he had lost the chance of registering and consequently of voting for President Roosevelt.

"Well, I am very, very sorry," he continued. Then his face brightened. "But," he added, "he shall have my prayers—he does not need my vote."

William McConway, a member of the governing board of the Pittsburgh Technical school, is in New York to see Andrew Carnegie about plans for the school. Mr. McConway arrived here on Wednesday and is stopping at the Manhattan hotel. He declined tonight to discuss his mission here. He will probably see Mr. Carnegie tomorrow or Tuesday.

Church Centennial Begins.

NEW WILMINGTON, PA., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—The centennial celebration of the First United Presbyterian church of New Wilmington began this morning with a special sermon by the pastor, the Rev. R. W. Thompson. This evening there was a memorial service in honor of deceased pastors, elders, deacons and members of the church, following which Mrs. H. C. Campbell of Pittsburgh gave an address.

THE DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Catherine Shannon.

Mrs. Catherine Shannon, aged 82, one of the oldest residents of the First ward, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Charles Smith, at 208 Ferry street, yesterday after a five months' illness. Mrs. Shannon was born in Ireland and came to Pittsburgh in 1846, the year following the great fire. The family located in the First ward and the deceased had lived there ever since. She was one of the few survivors of the old colony who, by death and the invasion of business and railroad interests, were taken from the district. Her husband, the late Patrick Shannon, was a business man in the early days of Pittsburgh, while Mrs. Shannon, up to 1898, conducted a stand in the market house. Mrs. Smith is the only relative surviving. Funeral services will be held from St. Mary's of Mercy Roman Catholic church, of which deceased was a member, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will follow in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. William M. Ramsey.

Mrs. William M. Ramsey died at her home, 435 Kelly avenue, Wilkinsburg, Sunday afternoon, after a lingering illness. She was born in Pittsburgh and had lived in this vicinity all her life. Mrs. Ramsey was a member of the East End Presbyterian church, and is survived by her husband. Services will be held at their late home Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. Sarah Wolfe, aged 87, of Beaver Falls, Pa., is dead at New Castle, Pa., at the home of her grandson, Harry Hilland, where she had been visiting.

George S. McCandless, for half a century a business man of New Castle, Pa., is dead at Bucyrus. He was 70 years old. He is survived by his widow and six children.

Mrs. Hannah Shadel, widow of Isaac Shadel, is dead at Greensburg, Pa. She was 76 years old and is survived by two sisters: Mrs. Michael Lowe of Greensburg and Mrs. Margaret Baughman of Madison.

Mrs. Mary Jones, aged 87, died yesterday at the home of her son, John Jones, at 110 Penn avenue, Turtle Creek, as a result of general debility. Mrs. Jones was born in Scotland and came to the country but three years ago.

George Nash, aged 77, is dead in Georgetown, Pa., after a long illness. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Kate Fisher of East Liverpool, O.; Mrs. Annie Stoddard of Georgetown; Mrs. Mary Moore of Wellsville, O., and Mrs. Hester Jarvis of Allegheny.

Fifty Years of Wedded Life Celebrated by This Couple

MR. AND MRS. W. J. KIRKER.

The celebration at New Castle last week of the golden wedding anniversary of Prof. and Mrs. William J. Kirker was an event of interest. Nearly 150 friends and relatives participated. Prof. Kirker was born in Butler county in 1835 and his wife was also born there and is two years his junior. Their marriage has been blessed by 17 children, of whom 11 are living. Of these, ten were present at the golden wedding. Prof. Kirker served as a First Lieutenant in the Civil war and was once candidate for congress on the People's ticket from the Twenty-fourth congressional district. He taught in the Lawrence county schools for many years.

DEATH OVERTAKES WOMAN IN HOME OF A NEIGHBOR

Oakdale School Teacher Dies Suddenly from Heart Disease Superinduced by a Fall.

A rather strange coincidence in the similarity of names, was revealed yesterday in the death of Miss Emily Martin, aged 60, of 410 Forty-fourth street. Miss Martin, who was a teacher in the Boys' Industrial school at Oakdale, visited a friend, Mrs. Frederick Martin of 327 Forty-fourth street, yesterday. While in the house Miss Martin was taken ill and Dr. W. W. Martin of Penn avenue and Main street was summoned, but the school teacher died soon after from heart disease. While the three principals bear the same name they are not related to each other. All live in Lawrenceville, where they have been residents for years.

The school teacher fell down stairs at the Oakdale school about a month ago. Since then she has complained of pains in the region of her heart. It is the opinion of Dr. Martin she was injured internally by the fall.

Emma Hoffer, aged 55, of 211 South Lang avenue, died yesterday morning from heart disease. The woman was lying in bed and her husband heard her groaning. A physician was summoned, but she died before he arrived.

George Salitros, aged 39, of 315 Jerome street, McKeesport, died at the home of friends at Shady avenue, Allegheny, early yesterday morning from heart disease. He had been in ill health for some time and his friends were collecting money to defray his expenses to Austria. He was to start for Austria this week.

Paul Trucovsky, of 490 Third avenue, Homestead, died at Mercy hospital yesterday morning from a fractured skull. He was a laborer at the Homestead steel works and on September 18 was hit on the head by an oil cup which fell 50 feet from a crane.

Harry Bucy, a 7-year-old boy, died suddenly last night at his home, 157 Lang alley. He had been ill with mumps. Last night he grew worse and a doctor was called, but the child died at 10:15.

NORTH CHURCH RAISED $1,000 IN FIVE MINUTES

The Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton, pastor of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, after the regular service yesterday morning announced to the congregation that it would be necessary at once to raise $1,032 to liquidate the deficit in the church treasury. Within five minutes every cent of the amount had been subscribed and the church starts its new year with a balanced account.

At the conference at Leechburg last week the report of A. D. Sharpe, treasurer of the church, showed a deficit of $1,032. Dr. Eaton yesterday explained that he wished no contributions under $5. The biggest amount given by one individual was $50, the balance of the required sum being subscribed in amounts ranging from $5 to $25.

SEVENTH MAN TO HANG DURING PRESENT YEAR

Albert Dabrydino, Who Killed His Sweetheart, to Be Executed Thursday.

Albert Dabrydino, who shot and killed his sweetheart, Mary Mucenska, May 28, 1903, will be hanged Thursday morning. This will make the seventh man executed in this county since the first of the year. Dabrydino, although he maintains he is innocent, has prepared himself for the end. He shot and killed his sweetheart in Pius street, South Side, because she refused to marry him. The girl had obtained employment as a nurse and preferred work to marriage. When Dabrydino learned this he shot her twice in the back. At the trial he said he intended to commit suicide and while the girl was trying to prevent him the revolver was discharged and she was killed. As the girl was wounded in the back, the court discredited his story.

On February 24 John Conroy was executed for the murder of his wife; May 5, William L. Hartley for killing Earnest O. Johnston, and on the same morning James Edwards was executed for shooting Clinton Banks; July 14 Frank Owsley and John Johnson were hanged for shooting James Donnelly, and on July 21 Nicholas Glazner was executed for shooting Margaret Hall. There are six men awaiting execution in the jail. Dusan Melic, for killing Andrew J. Kelly, October 4, 1903; Reno Dardala for stabbing Thomas Sinclair, December 16, 1903; Walter Obey, Charles Miles and Charles Jackson for shooting Ivan Kluzor, May 8, and William J. Beyers, for shooting August T. Layton, June 10, 1901. Beyers was recommended for commutation to life sentence by the pardon board to Gov. Pennypacker. In August the pardon board recalled the recommendation, and it is expected that Gov. Pennypacker will soon set the day for Beyers' execution.

Must Be a Strong Man.

John Walladin, a Croat, living in Etna, was arrested in a box car on the Allegheny Valley railway at the foot of Thirty-sixth street last night. Over 1,000 pounds of brass was stolen from a car in that locality a few nights ago, and since then Special Officer George Carr has been on duty there. He caught Walladin last night and locked him up.

FIRST SUNDAY HERE FOR PAUR

New Orchestra Conductor Will Begin Rehearsals in Music Hall Today.

MAY CHANGE TO A CHURCH

In a cosy room with his favorite piano, surrounded by photographs of his loved ones across the sea and by some floral tributes from friends here, Emil Paur, the new conductor of the Pittsburgh orchestra, spent his first Sunday in his latest adopted home. During the afternoon sojourners who included Bellefield avenue in their Sunday promenade caught notes of marvelous sweetness from a piano and many there were who instantly guessed that it was the master touch of Mr. Paur that stole the enchanting music from the keys.

A little tray on his table besides the piano was filled with cards of Pittsburghers who had called to pay their respects. A box of Mr. Paur's favorite imported cigarettes lay conveniently at hand. The personal side of the new conductor was not well known before he came here, but in the few days that he has been in Pittsburgh he has made scores of friends.

"I have begun friendships in this city, which I hope will prove life-long in their intimacy," he said. "On Thursday evening I dined with the orchestra committee and was royally entertained. Pittsburgh evidently has no distinct leisure class, but the cordial welcome and hospitality of the people reaches the stranger's heart. There may be less formality, but there is a great deal more of the cordiality that ripens into lasting friendships."

Cameras Do Him Injustice.

The photographer's camera makes a miserable failure in depicting Mr. Paur's features. All of his pictures give him a dreaming expression that does not exist. He might be imagined as a man of austere dignity if one's acquaintance were confined to the photographs alone. Those who meet the man and hear his gentle, musical voice on catch the merry twinkle of his eyes, unite in saying that the picture-takers do him little justice.

A few stray flakes of snow whitened the roof of a house on the opposite side of the street while Mr. Paur sat in his room. It was the first of the season and indicated an exceedingly early winter.

"I hope Pittsburgh has a cold winter," he said. "There's nothing more congenial to me than cold weather and plenty of it. I hope Jack Frost will remain with us long enough for the enjoyment of sleighing on Pittsburgh boulevards. When I was in Boston I indulged that jolly pastime to the utmost. During the winter I expect to take the orchestra for a Canadian tour, but our work probably will interfere largely with any chance we may have for sleighing. If there is any feature of northern Europe that I should like to transport in America it is the old sledge with its comfortable robes.

"Tomorrow morning we shall begin our rehearsals in the Carnegie music hall. Up above us and all around us are the workmen who are erecting the new addition to the institute. This will cause peculiar conditions. They may make too much noise for us—let us hope that our preliminary sawing and tooting will not disturb them—and it may be necessary to transfer the scene of our rehearsals to a hall or a church. A rehearsal will be called for 10 o'clock every morning through the week. All the members of the orchestra are in Pittsburgh and our ensemble should soon be perfected.

Post-Season Plans.

"At the conclusion of the season in Pittsburgh we expect to play in many of the larger cities and in April and May we expect to have engagements covering five or six weeks. A season of only 20 weeks would be too short for the practical side of the Art society's undertaking. We cannot expect to engage the best artists for such a short period, and with the standard of excellent men which have been enlisted in this orchestra the supplementary season on the road will do much toward not only carrying the message of Pittsburgh's musical greatness to other cities, but also to making more convenient the work of the musicians who contribute to that element of the city's phenomenal growth."

Mr. Paur was asked to tell something of his favorite recreation.

"The reading of the classics," he replied. "Goethe is my favorite author, but my acquaintance with the English language affords me likewise a great deal of pleasure. I am particularly fond of Shakespeare, but to me there is much more pleasure in reading the works of the great bard than in seeing them acted upon the English and American stage.

"I should be almost constrained to say that Shakespeare is not popular in his native language, judging from a comparison, which I always regret to make. In Germany all of Shakespeare's greatest dramas are seen every year by excellent companies and in many of the smaller cities, too. The historical plays are given in cycle form there like Wagner's operas. 'King John,' 'Richard II.,' 'Henry IV.,' 'Henry V.,' 'Henry VI.,' 'Richard III.,' are seen every year, together with the great comedies and sublime tragedies. Over here the acting editions of Shakespeare in many instances eliminate that which is most interesting to the Shakespearean scholar."

Peace cemetery and died in an ambulance while being taken to her home. She was 55 years old.

D. Johns	Q. B.	Hacha
Pfeffer	L. H.	Gordon (capt.)
Worrell	R. H.	McGregor
McAllister	F. B.	McCreight

Referee—Church, Princeton.
Umpire—McDivitt, W. and J.
Time of game—3:20 o'clock.
Place—Friendship park.

Pittsburgh High school and Kiskiminitas Springs school will play the first interscholastic championship game of the year this afternoon, at Friendship park. The preps from Saltsburg will come down from their abode this morning prime full of confidence and with a team that appears to be as formidable as any that ever represented their school.

Capt. Harry Gordon is the only man on the eleven that is not in first-class condition, but if he is not feeling right he will use a worthy substitute in Larimer. Gordon, however, will start the game at left half.

High school, too, will be handicapped somewhat in the absence of Al Bialas, left half, who has been out of the game for some time with a bad knee. He may play the second half and in the event of that Pfeffer will go to right end. Pfeffer is one of the best line buckers on the High school team.

In the matter of weight, Kiski will have the advantage, but it will have to be fast to get away with it against High school, which can hurry up matters when pressed.

Professors Cooper and Saul of High school have had a new section of bleachers erected for the game. They are on the west side of the field and will be occupied by the High school rooters. The fact that it is the first championship game will draw a large gathering of school boys and girls. The High school boys will back their favorites to the limit; they cannot see where Kiski has a chance. Kiski, however, sees victory ahead and thinks this is the year when it will cause defeat in the camp of Shadyside, its ancient enemy.

Shadyside Is Idle.

Shadyside academy has no game scheduled for this week, but Manager Carl Horntrager may arrange with the Washington High school for a game at Washington Thursday. The Shadyside players will take in the High school-Kiski game this afternoon. These three teams are the strongest rivals in this section, and when there is a game between any two of them the one watching the contest does not indulge in much cheering.

Tom Uptegraf, the Shadyside right end, has a younger brother, Gaynor Uptegraf, playing center on the High school team, and for this reason the Shadyside players may lean a little towards High school.

The Allegheny Prep. school will meet the Sewickley High school Friday afternoon at Sewickley. The Preps will go to Washington November 5 to play the Trinity Hall eleven. Trinity Hall is the big game for the Preps, and these two schools fight for a game like large universities. Trinity Hall will play the Preps on the latters' field November 19.

The Preps have but three new men on this year's team: Shelton, right tackle; Melhulen, center, and Hagan, quarter. Shelton weighs 119 pounds; Melhuish, who is the heaviest on the team, 156, and Hagan, the lightest, 107. All are clever players.

W. U. P. will play Susquehanna Wednesday, and California Normal Saturday at Exposition park.

West Virginia Alumni Fooled.

West Virginia university has a large alumni in Pittsburgh, among whom are athletes who once shone at the Morgantown institution. The Pittsburgh alumni gathering downtown Saturday night waiting for returns from Michigan did not anticipate a score of over 50 points for the Wolverines.

A report gained currency that Michigan had won by the score of 13 to 0, and there was much rejoicing among the Pittsburghers. Then there were reasons advanced freely why Michigan had failed to run up its usual score. Some said West Virginia was fast, others that Yost, who is a former West Virginian, did not want to kill his old school's team, and others said Michigan "had nothing on" West Virginia. Later in the night it was a merry crowd, but a sad looking one the next morning when the real score was read in the papers.

RACING ISSUE RAISED.

So York Society Must Pay Widow of Redmond Share of Purse.

YORK, PA., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—The death of Lyman Redmond has raised an important issue in racing circles. It will be remembered that Redmond fell dead from his sulky on the York county track during the fair, while driving Noah B., the bay gelding, belonging to Thomas Buckley of Arlington, Md., to victory. The horse had won two straight heats and was nearing the home stretch in the third. When 50 yards from the wire Redmond dropped dead upon the track. The animal continued racing driverless, but was ruled off because he did not come to the wire.

The question now arises, who is entitled to the purse? The National Trotting association will be called upon to compel the local agricultural society to pay to Mr. Buckley the owner's part of the purse, or $400. This Mr. Buckley intends to turn over to the widow of the late driver.

Kiser Goes Against Time.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 23.—The second world's fair automobile speed contest, under the auspices of the American Automobile association, was held on the Fair Grounds association track today. The feature was the three efforts against time made by Earl Kiser of Dayton, O. The time made by Kiser in three exhibitions of speed follows: Five miles, 5:49 3-5; ten miles, 11:13; five miles, 5:19.

He Is a Good Old Marksman.

YORK, PA., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—John Albaugh of Hampton, Adams county, despite his 80 years, has made a record by bringing down four squirrels from one tree. This octogenarian marksman leads in his district for the season.

Commodore, Race Horse, Dies.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 23.—Commodore, a 3-year-old chestnut colt by The Commoner and Rosa Musso, one of the track St. Louis race horses, died today of inflammation of the stomach. The owners, J. C. Milam & Co., has refused an offer of $10,000 for the horse.

A KISKI STAR.

E. CORBETT,

This is his second year on the Saltsburg Prep. school eleven.

ABOUT ELEVENS ON THE COLLEGE AND PREP. FIELDS

In the class series at Cornell last week the Sophomores won the annual game from the Freshmen 6 to 2. Lew Reiber of last year's East Liberty Academy nine played second base on the Freshmen. His two-bagger in the eighth inning scored the runs for his team. Harry Reiber played middle field five innings.

George Burger of Pittsburgh, last year captain of the St. Paul school team, is playing halfback on the Yale freshmen eleven.

Other Saturday football results: Phillips Exeter 24, Harvard II 0; Andover 28, Harvard freshmen 0; St. Paul school 6, Princeton Preparatory 0.

Coach Stagg of Chicago made a "find" in a new kicker. Tobin, the big guard, kicked the ball over Northwestern's goal line four times on kick-offs, and far outclassed the work of any other player in this department since the time of Hershberger.

In the Ohio Med.-Notre Dame game at Columbus a free-for-all fight was started at one time, so rough was the playing.

One of the features of the first half at Michigan Saturday was the fact that Michigan made a touchdown without their opponents having their hands on the ball after the kick-off. Schulte booted the ball and while West Virginia was debating on who should take it, Octavius Graham grabbed it and ran for a touchdown.

The Indians made a desperate rally at Harvard trying to at least score, and the Harvard rooters were heard to yell: "Don't score, Harvard, don't score!" Harvard didn't.

In the Penn-Columbia game, along about the middle of the second half the Columbia students startled every one by yelling. A tow-headed player was seen pulling off his white sweater by the side of Coach Morley. "It's Metz," yelled the New Yorkers. Mr. Morley was ready to spring his surprise in Metzenthin. The little quarterback seemed to infuse new life into his teammates. He was watched as closely by the grand stand as by the players. At last out he jumped in midfield; the way was almost clear, except little Stevenson, who was running to meet his play yards ahead. Three big Columbia men were found in a compact interference, and it looked dangerous. But somehow Greene, the lanky freshman, broke through and tackled Metzenthin so savagely that he dropped the ball and Stevenson, coming on the dead run, let it bound right into his hands, and, without slackening his pace, raced on down the field and fairly planted the pigskin behind the posts. It was the prettiest and most spectacular play that has been seen on Franklin field in many years.

Carothers played his first game at center for Princeton Saturday and passed better than was anticipated, but his weakness is chiefly in defense.

PIRATES SHOW POORLY IN FIELDING AVERAGES

Ritchey the Only Player Who Is Really a Leader. Giants Were the First and the Pirates Second.

The official fielding averages of the National league which have just been made public by President Pulliam show that in team fielding the Giants were first, as they were in batting, and the Pirates were second. The Giants' general percentage was .954, while the Pirates' was .952.

The figures also show that in but one position was there a Pirate at the head of the list, and that was Claude Ritchey, who leads the second basemen with the fine average of .958. "Heine" Peitz's name heads the first basemen, but the real leader is Dan McGann of New York, who played in 141 games as against Peitz's 18. Bransfield is eighth in the list. Wolverton of the Quakers is the real leader of the third basemen, and Tommy Leach is seventh. Tommy Corcoran of the Reds leads the shortstops with Hans Wagner third. The real leader of the outfielders, the number of games played being considered, is "Spike" Shannon, the local boy who was with the St. Louis team. A number of names tops his and among them Fred Clarke, but these players were in fewer games, and consequently had less fielding chances.

These figures also show that Jimmy Sebring was eighth among the outfielders, having played in 136 games and had a total of 268 chances on which he made seven errors, which gives him a general average of .974. McCormick, in 120 games is twentieth in the list with a general average of .928, having had 207 total chances on which he scored 15 errors.

Briggs of Chicago leads the pitchers, with "Dummy" Taylor second, Sam Leever third and Deacon Phillippee fourth. Briggs has a clean fielding average. Jack Warner of New York leads the catchers, with Fred Carisch of the Pirates second. Harry Smith is tenth among the catchers and Phelps is fifteenth. The averages follow.

KIDNAPED STAR TACKLE.

Rivals Hold Him in Irons to Win a Football Game.

OMAHA, NEB., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Because Alfred Cooper, right tackle of the Bellevue college football team was expected to win yesterday's game with Creighton university of Omaha, he was Friday night kidnaped by the students of the medical department of the latter school and was kept in irons all night.

Just before the game yesterday his whereabouts became known to the Bellevue people, and his release was demanded by the president on pain of the withdrawal of the Bellevue team. Cooper was released, but was unable to take part in the contest, and his team lost.

Cooper's capture was effected by a ruse, and he was taken to a vacant house in a hack. With iron on wrists and ankles he was guarded all night. At one time he escaped, but was recaptured.

M'GINNITY OUT $2,500.

Los Angeles Wanted Him for Winter, But Brush Said No.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—What share Joe McGinnity, who did so much to bring the National league pennant to New York this year, got out of the benefits and subscriptions tendered the Giants is hardly a balm to soothe his feelings now. A chance to make $2,500 by pitching for four weeks was offered him by Manager James F. Morley of the Los Angeles club. It slipped him because John T. Brush would not give his consent, fearing that McGinnity would throw his arm out.

In addition to $2,500 McGinnity was to receive transportation for himself and family. Brush did not, according to McGinnity, tell the player himself that he could not go, but had President Pulliam deliver the refusal. Brush said the only way he could give in was by releasing the pitcher.

Joe now visits the track daily, trying to make up the $2,500.

RITCHEY SCORES WINNING RUN FOR EMLENTON TEAM

BUTLER, PA., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Yesterday's ball game between Emlenton and Bruin at the former place resulted in a score of 1 to 0 in favor of Emlenton. While Rube Waddell was warming up for the first inning the first Emlenton batter stepped to the plate and drove one of his try-outs to left center for a single. The umpire wanted to bring the runner back from first and make him bat again, but Waddell would not let him and struck the next three men out. Ritchey scored in the ninth after making a single. Waddell fanned Jack Harper three times and Ritchey twice.

NEW CRUISER'S OFFICIAL TRIAL

The Pennsylvania Will Make a Speed-Testing Trip on November 22.

OF GOOD FIGHTING QUALITIES

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23.

The official trial of the new armored cruiser Pennsylvania has been set for November 22, over the Cape Ann course. If she comes up to the speed requirements, she will be placed in commission about three months later, and then Pennsylvania will be again represented in the United States navy. It seems an incongruity that the Keystone state, the greatest manufacturing district of the world, the state in which every pound of armor used in the United States navy and nearly all of the structural steel required for the building of the fighting ships has been manufactured, is now without any representation in the navy whatever, but such is the case.

Perhaps this statement should be qualified somewhat, for there is the unarmored, protected cruiser Philadelphia, the wooden sailing vessel Monongahela and the collier Lebanon, all bearing Pennsylvania names. But the Philadelphia, a good enough ship when she was completed in 1889, is now out of commission; the Monongahela, a 900-ton ship that was launched in 1862, is used as a training ship when the weather is fair, and the collier Lebanon, a soot-smeared craft of 1,400 gross tons, found her way into the navy during the shortage of bottoms in 1898, and never escaped.

Why We Have No Battleship.

But when the Pennsylvania is placed in commission the great Keystone state will not be so nearly ignored by those who are responsible for the nomenclature of the United States navy. The Pennsylvania is of a new type of cruiser and ranks next to a battleship. She belongs to a group of six, of which the other five are the Colorado, Maryland, West Virginia, California and South Dakota. Responsibility for naming an armored cruiser Pennsylvania, while the first-class battleships went to such states as Alabama, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas and Nebraska, must lie with the senators and representatives in congress from the Keystone state. It is admitted at the navy department, that if they had shown sufficient interest in the matter, they could have had a battleship named after their state.

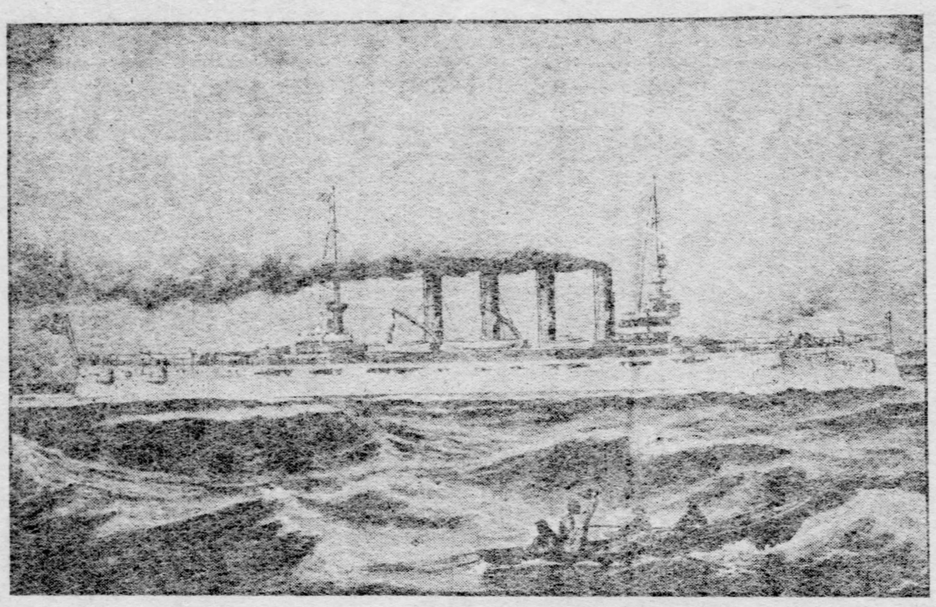
However, an armored cruiser is not so bad, and one of the type of the Pennsylvania is still better. She is being built by the Cramps of Philadelphia and was launched this spring with great ceremony, when Miss Coral Quay, the daughter of the late senator, christened her. The contract price of the hull and machinery is $3,890,000 and she is to have a speed of 22 knots an hour. The Pennsylvania is 502 feet in length and will have a displacement of 13,680 tons. She will have good fighting qualities as well as speed. Four 8-inch guns will be mounted in pairs in two electrically controlled turrets, one forward and aft

What This City May Get.

On the main deck there will be four 6-inch guns and on the gun deck the main broadside battery of ten 6-inch guns, five on each side, will be located. On the main deck, forward and aft, and also within the superstructure will be located the 3-inch guns, 18 in all. The secondary battery will also consist of 12 3-pounder, eight 1-pounder, two 3-inch rapid fire field guns, two machine guns and six automatic guns of small caliber, mounted in commanding positions and on the military tops. The ammunition to be carried for the above batteries will consist of 500 rounds of 8-inch, 2,500 rounds of 6-inch, 4,500 rounds of 3-inch and ample allowance for the remainder of the guns. All the latest designs in electric equipment, ventilation and apparatus to insure safety will be provided. She is to be fitted up as a flagship and magnificent quarters are provided for the admiral who sails on the Pennsylvania. The complement of the vessel, when used as a flagship, will consist of an admiral, captain, chief of staff, 22 wardroom officers, 12 junior officers, 10 warrant officers, 685 crew and a marine guard of 60, making a total of 782.

As battleships and armored cruisers are named after states and protected cruisers are named after cities, the best that Pittsburgh can hope for is to have her name attached to a ship of the latter class. Even this can only be accomplished by the activity of the congressmen from Pittsburgh and the assistance of Senator Knox and Senator Penrose. All of the vessels that have been authorized by congress to date have been named, but at the forthcoming session of congress others will be provided for, and among them will no doubt be one or more protected cruisers. This will make it possible for Pittsburgh to secure representation in the navy if the people of that city are sufficiently interested to make the effort. L. W. STRAYER.

KEYSTONE STATE'S REPRESENTATIVE IN THE NEW NAVY



PAY TRIBUTE TO DEAD CAPTAIN

Officers to the Number of 200 Will Attend the Funeral Today.

SALUTE OVER THE GRAVE

The members of the police force will attend Capt. Albert M. Teeters' funeral this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Headed by the Fourteenth regiment band, 200 policemen in full dress uniform will accompany the body to the Homewood cemetery. Capt. Teeters will be buried from his home at 301 Hastings street.

Supt. Wallace called a meeting of his inspectors yesterday morning and made arrangements to attend the funeral. It was decided that Inspector R. H. Robinson of the First district, Central station, should detail 70 officers to attend the services; Inspector W. J. Boyle of the Second district, Frankstown avenue station, 40 men; Inspector Robert S. Gray, Third district, Penn avenue station 30 men; Inspector M. E. Bailey, Fourth district, Forbes street station, 30 men, and Inspector Bernard McStay, Fifth district, South Side station, 30 men. These policemen will report at the Frankstown avenue station house at 1:30 o'clock and march to Capt. Teeters' late home.

The following officers were appointed as pall-bearers: Lieut. T. J. Dorgan, Lieut. T. B. Werner, Lieut. Robert Emmett, Lieut. Robert McPoland, Lieut. Charles Boswick, Lieut. Lawrence Bartley and Lieut. Harry Meyers. The officers will be in charge of Assistant Superintendent Edward Kennelly, who will be assisted by Capt. Thomas McCabe, Capt. Peter P. Walsh and Capt. J. N. Fredericks. The men will wear their winter overcoats, black helmets, white gloves and dress maces. Inspectors Bailey and Boyle were detailed by Supt. Wallace to notify Mrs. Teeters of the arrangements of the police board.

Friends of the dead captain called at his house yesterday to view the remains. Many handsome floral tributes have been received.

Lieut. J. P. Welsh, who accidentally shot Capt. Teeters is greatly distressed over the affair. He and Capt. Teeters were close friends. When Lieut. Welsh was appointed on September 20, Capt. Teeters greeted him at the Frankstown avenue station that evening and pinned his badge on his coat. The dead captain shook Lieut. Welsh's hand and assured him of success in his new position.

The veteran corps of the Fourteenth regiment will also attend the funeral services. Capt. Teeters was a sergeant in the regiment for many years.

CHURCH DEDICATED.

St. Anselm's Congregation of Swissvale Consecrated House of Worship.

St. Anselm's Roman Catholic church, McClure avenue, Swissvale, was dedicated yesterday. In the forenoon the church was blessed, the dedicatory services began and solemn high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father A. A. Lambing. The Rev. Father Henry McHugh was deacon and the Rev. Father William A. Cunningham sub-deacon.

The dedicatory sermon was preached by Coadjutor Bishop J. F. Regis Canevin. Assisting the bishop at the services were the Rev. Father Henry McAvoy and the Rev. Father Martin Ryan. The new building is of brick and stone. The first story is for a parochial school, which will be opened next year. The auditorium is on the second floor and will seat about 250 people.

The congregation was organized in October, 1903, and first held services in the home of Attorney Willis F. McCook, mass being celebrated by Bishop Canevin in the parlor. Later the John Hayes mansion in McClure avenue was secured, and the Rev. Father Daniel O'Connell of Butler was called to the parish. The congregation paid $12,700 for the ground upon which the new church stands. Later a convent and new church are to be built.

SUNDAY GAZETTE PAGES FULL OF INFORMATION

Matters of Interest from All Points of Compass to Be Found in Pittsburgh's Greatest Paper.

The news columns of The Pittsburgh Sunday Gazette contained about almost everything worth reading. There were big and little items from the immediate vicinity, important happenings in the world of politics, a perfect feast of information as to what is going on throughout the United States, all that is new at the seat of war, and matters of importance as well as interesting gossip at the various capitals of Europe.

The Japanese seem unable to again secure that advantage in the fighting which has fallen to their arms. They made a defensive move south of Mukden, but were definitely checked. Both armies are exhausted, apparently, which has resulted in an enforced calm. There is an estimated loss of 80,000 men in killed and wounded during the 10 days' fighting.

Politics continue to attract the undivided attention of the people and the advantageous position held by the Republicans is apparently strengthened by the daily reports. Heavy odds on the election of President Roosevelt are offered in New York, but Democratic cash is not forthcoming. An enormous crowd gathered at Wheeling to greet Vice Presidential Candidate Fairbanks, and the day was characterized by two great meetings and a monster parade. Judge Parker, in a speech at Esopus, arraigns the protective tariff. The New York Herald's correspondents throughout the country furnish evidence that Roosevelt leads in the doubtful states, and it is expected that a statement from the Democratic managers will be issued today making similar claims for Parker.

The war and navy departments at Washington have hit upon a novel plan for the maneuvers next spring. Washington will be attacked, the purpose being to show its impregnability in point of defense. Youngstown (O.) strikers were shot to death by workmen who, it is claimed, they tried to intimidate. The Episcopal house of bishops failed to concur on the compromise question of remarrying divorced persons. A Jersey City man who met and married a girl on the same day secures divorce, evidence being adduced to show that she had a husband living. Net earnings of about $19,000,000 will be shown for the third quarter at the meeting of the directors of the United States Steel Corporation next Thursday. Clifford Smythe, a former consular officer, is said to be stirring up trouble in Panama for Democratic campaign purposes.

Ex-President Cleveland evidently has faith in the efficacy of the horseshoe as a talisman, for he has written to a blacksmith at Allentown advising him to send one to Judge Parker. Although a general indorsement was given the Allegheny County Sabbath Observance association at the meeting of the Pennsylvania synod at Oxford the association nevertheless came in for considerable criticism.

The Republican campaign committee invites all uniformed political clubs in the county to take part in a final big demonstration to be held here on the Saturday preceding the election. Strong objections to the change in the architecture of the Allegheny county court house by the addition of two stories manifest themselves in no uncertain way. The fund to investigate the charges of bribery in Pittsburgh councils continues to grow. Charles Emory Smith and John Daizell were the central figures at a great Republican gathering held at Kenwood Lawn. Merchants and Manufacturers association, which went hunting for trade in Ohio, return home enthusiastic over the results of the expedition. After an investigation into the shooting of Police Captain Teeters by Lieut. Welsh it is officially given out that it was accidental. A crowd of 12,000 enthusiastically cheered Conductor Walter Damrosch at the closing of the exposition season and a woman triumphantly steals his baton. Residents of Sterrett township tire of waiting for Greater Pittsburgh and want annexation. Bank Clerk Ekas is sentenced to five years imprisonment.

Football was, of course, the absorbing matter in the world of sports and the season continues to reveal surprises. The West Point cadets took the scalps of the strong Yale eleven through the intervention of the Elf's. Washington and Jefferson were too weak for the husky boys from State college, the latter winning on Exposition park gridiron by 12 to 0. O. H. Chandler Egan loses the intercollegiate golf championship to A. L. White of Harvard. Local golfers spent a busy day on the links and some fine scores were made.

The day's trading in the stock market totaled almost 1,000,000 shares. The grain market closed at a decline, while provisions were unchanged.

The Home Journal section of The Sunday Gazette was, if possible, even brighter than heretofore, while the editorial section was replete with both information and wit.

Trouble at a Dance.

William Sorg of 2005 Larkins alley struck Agnes Collins of 42 South Thirty-third street while dancing in Turner hall Saturday night. She retaliated and both were arrested. Yesterday Sorg was fined $25 and costs and the woman $5.

What The Earth Produces.

The earth has nourished us through unknown ages of human existence. Is it not true that the earth supplies us with everything that we really require for existence? Have you ever thought that it is probable that the earth supplies us with the means to keep our bodily vigor, our health, if we only knew it? The animals know by instinct what is good for them and will search until they find in some plant what they need for correcting indigestion or constipation, etc. Is it, therefore, not possible that there are roots and herbs supplied by nature which will cure the diseases that afflict human kind? That is why Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has such faith in his "Medical Discovery." Years ago, when he was in general and active practice, he found that a combination of certain herbs and roots made into an alterative extract, without the use of alcohol, would always put the stomach into a healthy condition, nourish the tissues, feed the blood and nerves and put healthy tone into the whole system.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores the lost flesh by curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food from which flesh and strength are made.

"I was all run down, very nervous, and suffered terribly from stomach trouble, which the doctors pronounced indigestion," writes Mrs. Wm. Morey, of Marshall, Mich. "I doctored for a year without permanent relief. Was advised by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after the use of nine bottles I was cured. I can heartily recommend the 'Golden Medical Discovery' to any one suffering from stomach trouble. My husband was also greatly benefited by its use."

HOW TO REPEAL THE BLUE LAWS

Dr. Levy Says They Need Only to Be Strictly Enforced for One Month.

OUT OF TUNE WITH THE AGE

"Let those who agitate for a legal Sunday remember that when it is instituted, they will obtain that which Jesus opposed. The law should be, however, strictly enforced, and if for one month the blue laws of 1794 were maintained, the next legislature would do its duty by rescinding laws totally opposed to modern ideas of liberty, entirely out of harmony with the ideals of this nation."

With these words the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy concluded his lecture on the "Blue Laws" in the Eighth street temple yesterday morning. In the course of his address Dr. Levy also said:

I yield to no man in my desire to see a Sabbath reverently and religiously observed. I yield to no man in the firmness of my belief that for the moral, physical and spiritual welfare of man a period of rest should be observed each week when, as it were, the individual might become recreated. Knowing as I do the joys of a holy and happy Sabbath, I could wish with all my heart and soul that the people of this broad land were wise enough to abstain from toil once a week and maintain a Sabbath as a day of worship, innocent pleasure, family reunion and moral and spiritual edification.

Should Not Be Enforced by Law.

But I also yield to no man in the firmness of my conviction that desirable as is a Sabbath and necessary as it is to the best interests and highest well-being in a country such as this, where church and state are divorced, the Sabbath should not be enforced by law.

Of course, patriotic sentiment and good citizenship are considerations which should lead us to obey the law so long as it is on the statute book, but the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances is a constitutional method by which obnoxious and tyrannical laws may be removed from the statute books, and I make bold to say that every lover of liberty and every one who is concerned in the future of religion in the United States will, if he is wise, resort to this constitutional method at once and without delay, to the end that church and state may be united forever divorced and religious liberty be conserved, even though it be at the expense of sectarian unity.

Those who believe in the Sunday laws and those who clamor for their observance, either know, or ought to know, that Sunday is not the Sabbath; that it was not so regarded by Jesus of Nazareth, nor by the apostles, nor is there any statement in the scriptures which warrants the transfer of the seventh day Sabbath to the first day of the week.

Origin of the Modern Sabbath.

The student of history knows full well that it was not until the time of Constantine, or nearly 300 years after the death of Jesus of Nazareth, that the pagan day, "the venerable day of the sun," became established as the basis of the modern "Sun-day." At that time Sunday was a mere heathen holiday and it has been left to the theologians, acting on human authority, to gradually transfer the Sabbath idea of the fourth commandment to the pagan and heathen holiday instituted by Constantine the Great. It was but a step from the Lord Apollo's day (for Sunday was originally known) to the Lord's day, as it was only a step from God's Sun's-day to God's Son's-day.

Whatever be the peculiar logic which has established this transfer, whatever be the arguments adduced to warrant the infringement of the fourth commandment; whatever be the special appeal by means of which God's law uttered on Sinai might be changed by the deeds of man, there is no logic and there is no argument and there is no plea in the court of reason which should prevent the human institution of 1794, human and therefore erring, human and therefore variable, from being changed to meet the entirely new condition of affairs concerning which the brave ancestors of the American people knew nothing and about which they could not dream.

If Jesus Came to Pittsburgh.

As a reader of the New Testament I have been greatly charmed by the picture of the gentle Nazarene going about doing good, healing the sick, curing the blind, lifting the fallen, helping the lame to walk, and I well remember with what a sense of approbation I have always read of his plucking the ears of corn on the Sabbath day and justifying his action by the splendid Jewish saying that "the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath." Were this gentle and loving Jew to come to Allegheny county on a summer's day and desire to practice his generous art by the modern method of purchasing ice, forescoth, his followers would cry out against him and charge him with breaking the laws of 1794 for doing the very thing they so highly approve when reported in the scriptures.

But this is merely a detail and unworthy of men who are pledged to the high calling of teaching religion. If there be no better way of displaying love for an ennobling faith than to become part and parcel of an inquisitorial system, if there be no better way of proving witnesses to the truth than by persecuting in a manner (in my judgment contrary to the true intent of the Constitution of this land), those who deal in what we in our day feel to be necessities on Sunday, then woe worth religion, and woe worth the men who thus malign and misrepresent the true principle of religion, and woe worth those shepherds who are the primary cause, through maintaining the blue laws, of forcing many to make Sunday a red letter day.

SPOKE ON BAPTIST UNITY.

The Rev. Dr. J. S. Hutson Points to Unanimity Existant in the Face of Diversity.

"Baptist Unity in Diversity," was the theme of the Rev. Dr. J. S. Hutson in Beth-Eden Baptist church, Allegheny, last evening. Taking for his text Psalm CXXXIII: "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity," the pastor said in part:

In a very large and true sense all true believers in Jesus, of whatever name, do dwell together in unity. This unity is brought about by their oneness of belief, in the one only Jesus Christ, the one Bible as the expressed word of God, and the one Holy Spirit of Divinity and authorized interpreter of that word.

This unity is deep, spiritual, and means vastly more to the church and the world than mere organized union. The one is real and fundamental, the other mechanical and incidental. Of course this unity exists in great variety, but variety and diversity do not imply antagonism, but rather mutual sympathy and co-operation. Among no body ought this sympathy be more manifest or more conspicuous than among Baptists. Their traditional belief in the Bible and the Bible only, the necessity of regeneration by the Holy Spirit, the supreme headship of Christ over the lives and conscience of all disciples, and their recognized loyalty to the great commission to preach the gospel to every creature, ought to place them in the front rank of the followers of our Lord.

Our national assemblies as well as state gatherings furnish abundant illustration of the truth of the text. The recent convention at McKeesport demonstrated afresh the unity, equality and goodly fellowship of the Baptist hosts throughout the commonwealth. The Alleghenies themselves do not constitute a barrier between those who are so thoroughly and inseparably one in spirit, in purpose, and in work.

NEW CASTLE PASTOR RESIGNS HIS CHARGE

REV. WALTER D. TRUMBULL.

NEW CASTLE, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—The resignation of the Rev. Walter D. Trumbull from the pastorate of the Central Christian church of this city has just been announced by the official board. The resignation tendered last Sunday has been accepted.

Rev. Trumbull came here two years ago from Hiram College, O., where he was completing a post-graduate theological course. Shortly afterward the congregation began the erection of a fine $26,000 brick and stone church. It is said that disagreements between the pastor and the building committee over the new church led to the resignation.

MANY METHODIST PASTORS MET NEW CONGREGATIONS

Others Greet Their Old Friends—The Rev. Paul Weyand Discusses New Rule of Unlimited Pastorate.

As a result of the pulpit changes recently announced at the Methodist Episcopal conference at Leechburg, clergymen of that denomination throughout the county were yesterday either called upon to greet new congregations or congratulate themselves and their flocks upon their reappointment.

In his sermon on the "Outlook for Another Year," the Rev. Paul Weyand, in the Knoxville Methodist Episcopal church, dwelt with favor upon the recent abolishment of the five-year limit ministerial assignment provision, and said in part:

In the midst of a considerable number of changes at the annual conference of our church at Leechburg last week, some ministers desiring to move, some churches desiring a change, it is a pleasure to be back again where I on my part feel honored again to be your pastor and where you have extended to me such a cordial invitation to return. The present arrangement of allowing an unlimited number of reappointments of a pastor to a charge retains the flexibility of the Methodist system and yet allows time for the full maturity of plans which may take more time than the old limit of five years to bring to pass. Just give the old church a little time and she will accommodate herself as truly to the new order of things as she has so often accommodated herself to changed conditions in the past as the world moved on. I, for one, cannot bring myself to believe that the Methodist ministry is incapable of producing long settled pastorates which so often have been the glory of other denominations.

Today, by virtue of many conditions from the outside, a higher grade of preaching every week is demanded than ever before. This preparation, this firm grasp on preaching power, is not attained simply by rubbing an Aladdin's lamp, but in the same way as any other professional man masters his profession: by hard, concentrated, persistent application and study. It is a hard price to pay, but it is worth while. A long pastorate under the present conditions, with the right sort of a man to fill it, is the foe on the one hand of lazy preparation for Sunday and does away with a high-strung, nervous fear which keeps the minister from doing his best for fear he will not accomplish everything in a few short months or years. Great events and great influences cannot be generated in a short space of time.

It likewise gives time for a growth in respect and confidence on the part of the community, which is by no means to be despised. Some natures, whether in the pulpit or in the pew, are not easily fathomed in a short time. Like a rich vein of ore, the best in them does not always lie close to the surface, but the lead always pays for the time spent in working it. So it is with the mutual help which the pastor derives from his people and they, I trust, from him. More than they realize, they provide him sermons and inspiration and expository.

During this coming year I have but one prayer and one desire. That is, that our church here may more and more become what our Lord meant by the term, "The kingdom of God"; That the church and kingdom may be synonymous in men's minds. That as they look into our lives they may see exactly the same qualities of love, charity, uprightness, honor and truth which Christ taught and for which in all its fullness He died. That only is the justification of His life and the only justification for the existence of a church.

DIFFICULTIES SETTLED IN BETHEL A. M. E. CHURCH

New Pastor Preaches Inaugural Sermon and the Rev. Dr. I. S. Lee Goes to Avery Mission.

The local Afro-American Methodist churches have promises of a sweet dream of peace following the turbulent affairs in Bethel congregation in Wylie avenue last week. The Rev. Walter S. Lowry preached yesterday morning and last night to good-sized congregations at Bethel church. Bishop Derrick sent a telegram from Flushing, N. Y., in which he said in substance:

"Don't listen to the backsliders when they tell you that Bishop Turner of Atlanta is coming to Pittsburgh on Tuesday to solve this ecclesiastical riddle. Pin your faith to the Lord and march on in truth to glory." Bishop Turner has no jurisdiction here.

The Rev. Dr. I. S. Lee, the former pastor of Bethel congregation, will be pastor of the Avery mission in Allegheny, it is said, with a salary of $1,200 a year and a free parsonage. This arrangement will keep Dr. Lee close to his old flock and will prevent his going into provincial districts. Dr. Lee was expected to preach last night in the Warren Methodist church in Fulton street, but was detained on account of illness in his family. The pulpit was occupied by Dr. Stinson of Atlanta.

Y. M. C. A. SAID FAREWELL.

Second Pennsylvania District Convention Closed at Monongahela—Pittsburghers Participate.

MONONGAHELA, PA., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—After three days' sessions of the most successful conventions of the Young Men's Christian association ever held in the Second Pennsylvania district, the meetings were brought to a close here this evening with special farewell services in the Methodist Episcopal church. This morning thanksgiving services were held in the Young Men's Christian association rooms, Judson J. McKim of New Castle acting as leader. William K. Jennings of Pittsburgh conducted the services at the Presbyterian church while Charles H. Dembia officiated at the Christian church.

David R. Donald of Lawrenceville had charge of a special meeting for boys in the Baptist church at the same hour, while Kennedy Crumrine of Pittsburgh presided at the women's meeting in the Presbyterian church. At the farwell meeting this evening William T. Lyon of Pittsburgh presided. Short talks were given on "The Opportunities for Usefulness Afforded By the Young Men's Christian Association" by Edward Eller of Pittsburgh, E. J. Dunlap of McKees Rocks, R. W. Murphy of Washington and William K. Jennings of Pittsburgh.

TWO SOCIETIES ADMITTED TO C. T. A. ORGANIZATION

The Diocesan union of the Catholic Total Abstinence society met yesterday at Holy Cross hall, South Thirty-second and Carson streets. The Rev. John G. Bonne presided. Two adult societies from Mt. Washington and a cadet society from the Holy Cross church were admitted to the union. The reports of the delegates from the parish societies showed a large gain. Addresses were made by the Rev. Thomas J. Devlin, Father Garrigan, Father Aaron, A. B. Flood, P. W. Joyce, John Ferrick, James Lundy and Charles D. McShane. The next meeting will be held on Sunday afternoon, November 26, in Greensburg.

WATCHMAN! WHAT OF THE NIGHT? THE MORNING, AND A NIGHT COMETH

Pastor Russell Preaches in Bible House Chapel on "Christendom Astray."

LOOKS FOR SUNRISE IN WEST

Pastor C. T. Russell addressed a large audience in Bible House chapel, Arch street, Allegheny, at 3 p. m. yesterday. His text was from Isaiah xxi:11-12: "Watchman, what of the night? The watchman said, The morning cometh and also the night." The discourse in full follows:

For 20 centuries the world, led by the hopes of the Jews, has been looking for and hoping for and thinking about the coming golden age in which all the families of the earth will be blessed with every conceivable prosperity. Nor did the thought originate in the Jewish nation. It came to them through the divine promise, the oath-bound covenant of God to Abraham, that in his seed all the families of the earth should be blessed. The hope set before the nation of Israel was that they, as the seed of Abraham, would be God's agency in connection with Messiah for the communication of this blessing to every nation, kindred, people and tongue. Under the stimulus of this hope their nation held together as no other nation has ever done.

Those who accepted Christ, both of the Jews and the Gentiles, lay claim to all those promises which center in Christ, and which the Jewish nation in rejecting Him cut loose from. Christendom claims to be spiritual Israel, and, as such, heirs of all the wonderful spiritual promises to God, as the apostle declares: "If ye be Christ's then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise."—(Gal. iii:29). This hope inspired the apostles and all of the early church. They looked forward to the second coming of Christ as the time when the church as His bride would be glorified with their Lord and associated with Him in the work of the kingdom—the work of restraining and destroying evil and exalting righteousness—the work of rolling back the curse from every people, nation and kindred, and of uplifting the world of mankind from sin and death—the work of raising up the dead world from its fallen condition to all that was lost in Adam and redeemed by the precious blood of Christ. This glorious time the Apostle Peter, for instance, referred to, saying: "Times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord, and He shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you: whom the heaven must receive (retain) until the times of restitution of all things, spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began."—(Acts, iii:19-21).

No Bible student of honest mind will for one moment question that the hope of union with Christ in His kingdom at His second advent was the grace the early church, and was in view of this glorious exaltation that the apostles and all the faithful brethren were so willing to suffer persecution for the truth's sake and thus to follow their Master in the "narrow way." He foretold that those who follow Him in this present time would in the next dispensation, the promised millennial age, sit with Him in His throne as His bride and associated in the government of the world, in its instruction in righteousness, in its uplift out of sin and degradation. The apostle emphasizes the Master's teachings, saying: "If we suffer with Him we shall also reign with Him." He exhorts the church to count all things of this present time but as loss and dross that they might win Christ—win a membership in the great Messiah, and thus share with their Lord and head in the great work He is to accomplish according to the promise.

The apostle links together most positively present faithfulness to the Lord and future association with Him in the kingdom, saying: "I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us."—"We are the children of God; and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, joint heirs with Christ—if so be that we suffer with Him, that we may also be glorified together with Him." He further declares that the "earnest expectation of the creature (the world of mankind in general) waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God"—their manifestation or revelation in glory as the Christ, the Messiah, the great King, head and body, whose rule is to bring to earth the golden age and the foretold blessings mentioned by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began.—Rom. viii:16-19.

Christendom Gone Astray.

No theologian of any denomination will question the fact that so-called Christendom—hope in the second advent of Christ and the kingdom which He will then establish—was the dominating thought of the church of Christ in the days of the apostles, during the time when the New Testament was written. The followers of Christ understood themselves to be entirely separate and distinct from the world, to have different hopes and aims. During the calamities of the race, because they were "children of the highest," "begotten again of the Spirit," "new creatures in Christ Jesus," to whom old things have passed away and all things have become new, through this hope inspired by the Lord's word and appreciated through His Spirit. But very very soon after the death of the apostles grievous errors crept in amongst the Lord's followers and a new theory or philosophy on the subject of the kingdom was started, namely, that instead of waiting for the Lord from heaven to exalt His church with a glorious change from mortal to immortal conditions and to clothe her with glory, honor and immortality, and equip her with power and authority to execute judgment on the earth, the program was to be a different one—that the apostles had not quite grasped the thought—that the church should understand it to be her mission to convert the world without the second coming and that when she had accomplished this He would come, inspect her work and approve it.

The mistake was a serious one and its results have been far-reaching. The theory that the apostles had made a mistake in the teaching that the church was to continue to suffer until the second advent of Christ—that it was to continue to be despised and rejected of men, and that whosoever would live godly in this present life would suffer persecution, were only partial truths applicable to the apostles' day, and not subsequently. The thought that the apostles' testimony needed to be supplemented led to the theory that prevails today in the Roman Catholic and all the Episcopal churches, namely, that the testimonies of the apostles are not the final messages of God, but that the living church is of equal power and authority with the apostles—that the clergy through apostolic succession have the same right and the same authority that the apostles had to express the divine plan, and thus came the false teaching that the decrees of councils of the church, the creeds and doctrines which they established, were to be taken as the rule of faith and practice in conjunction with the writings of the apostles.

This error is widely manifest and has borne much bad fruit, permitting the introduction of various forms, ceremonies, practices and doctrines which the apostles never authorized and many of which are in direct opposition to their inspired teachings. The reformation movement under Luther and others was an attempt to get free from this error and to acknowledge what the scriptures so clearly present, namely, that there were but twelve apostles of the Lamb and that they had no successors in office, but are with the Lord's people as the representatives of the Lord and His message throughout the age, and constitute, therefore, the only divinely appointed teachers in conjunction with the Lord and all the holy prophets of ancient times, to whose utterances they have furnished the key.

Under the lead of these new teachers, who claimed for themselves apostolic succession and apostolic inspiration, the hope of the second coming of Christ as the world's deliverer from the thralldom of Satan and sin and death gradually faded and a new teaching took its place. That new teaching began the foundation of the papal theory and practice and descended in a legitimate manner from papacy to the various denominations of Christendom. That theory is this: God has commissioned the church to conquer the world now—not waiting for a millennial reign of Christ in which He shall reign until He hath put all enemies under His feet, as the apostle Paul points out.—1 Cor. xv:25.

"Thy Kingdom Come."

The theory that the time had come for the church to cease her suffering and to begin her reign over the kingdoms of the earth would naturally be a pleasing and fascinating theory, and no wonder it gradually enveloped the church to such an extent that any who still held to the old apostolic views were few and considered behind the times—until finally when the error became known as "orthodoxy" and was established by councils of the church, those who held apostolic teachings on the subject were called "heretics." Under the new theory every energy was bent to obtaining power over the nations, and the whole world knows of the wonderful success of the effort. The Roman empire was swallowed up by papacy, and the power and authority of the empire passed into its hands.

For century upon century papacy reigned over the civilized world, under the claim that it was the kingdom which had been predicted by all the holy prophets, the kingdom which was to conquer the world and to which all the kingdoms of the earth should do reverence. History tells us that in the enforcement of this theory—that papacy was the kingdom of God and that the pope was the personal representative of Christ, His vice-gerent in the earth—one of the kings of England, for venturing to ignore a mandate from the pope, was threatened with the loss of his kingdom, and as penance was obliged for three days and nights to walk barefooted about the pope's palace, and then was admitted to the pope's presence and on his knees kissed the pope's great toe, as a fulfilment of the prophecy of the second Psalm, "Kiss the Son, lest he be angry and ye perish in the way." Psa. ii:12.

It was in accord with this same erroneous teaching that thousands upon thousands were persecuted to the death because they would not recognize this papal system as the kingdom of God's dear Son foretold by the prophets, our Lord and the apostles—because they did not recognize the pope as the vicegerent of Christ and the reign of Christ thus begun. It must be acknowledged that those persecutions of all opposed to papacy as heretics were in full accord with the theories advanced. The scriptures declare that when God's kingdom shall be established it shall rule the world with a rod of iron and put down all insubordination of every kind. If therefore papacy was that kingdom of God it should be expected that it would subdue with mighty power, as an iron rod, all opposition. Thus does an error of doctrine lead to an error of practice, and illustrates to us the necessity for having the true faith once delivered unto the saints, and the necessity also of rejecting as false, as anti-scriptural and anti-Christian, everything which opposes or substitutes itself for that which the Lord has promised.

Reformation Theories Tinctured.

Martin Luther, at one time a Roman Catholic theologian, by the grace of God got his eyes so widely opened to the errors of the system with which he was associated that he withdrew and began a reformation work. A great blessing has come through that reformation movement with which Luther and others were identified—a blessing to Christendom in general, including Roman Catholicism. Almost fierce were the attacks of Luther on the papal system as the anti-Christ. He realized that it was necessary that this point should be seen in order to break the superhuman influence of Satan, exercised through that great system to the enslavement of the whole world in gross superstition and unrighteousness.

We think it not unreasonable to believe that many honest-hearted Roman Catholics, looking back to the gross darkness of the sixteenth century, are glad of the reformation movement, and realize that a great change has resulted therefrom beneficial to every element of honesty and righteousness in the papal system.

We, too, rejoice in the benefits which have come through that reformation to all the people of civilized lands, but we wish to point out that the reformation movement in its wide influence has only restrained one of the open and violent results of the false doctrines, and has not changed the false doctrine itself, of which the papal hierarchy was the reasonable and legitimate fruitage. Unless this erroneous theory be gotten out of the way—unless we say, not expecting that it will be, we may be sure that the proposed unification or federation of all religious systems of Christendom will speedily lead to autocratic assumptions in the world, very similar to those which papacy exercised in the zenith of its power—though doubtless moderated to some extent by the changed conditions of our day.

We are not hoping to change these matters as regards the world in general. Our only hope is to reach the hearts and understanding of the Lord's truly consecrated people, for as the Lord has declared through the prophet, "The wicked shall do wickedly, but shall not understand, but the wise shall understand"—our Lord's own ones, who are wise in measuring His word and plan rather than human philosophies and earthly wisdom and policy. Instead, dear friends, of our entertaining a hope of swaying the world in this matter, we realize that it is clearly taught us in the Book of Revelation that this great federation of Christendom is very near, and that the Lord will permit it to have sufficient power in the world to estop myself and any other who will speak forth in defense of the faith once delivered to the saints; and to show the errors and fore-ordinances of the theories which are dominating the "Christian world" today. It would not at all surprise me if only a few years hence any one using the language which I am using here today

Would Meet With Violence.

Do you ask why? I answer that the public mind is so permeated with the error and so committed to its support, and so blinded to the greater beauty and harmony of the divine word and plan, that, in a fanciful zeal for God and His cause, these persecutors of the future like those of the dark ages would verily think they were doing God service.

Christendom is infatuated with the thought of converting the world. In heathen poetry they read of the golden age, and in the scriptures they read of the glories of the day of Christ, the millennium, and logically they reason that evil and sin ought not to endure forever, and that the Lord has promised that the time shall come when Satan shall be bound, that he shall deceive the nations no more, and carried away by the spirit with the erroneous theory that they are now the kingdom of Christ, and that they are now to reign over the world, and that they are now to conquer the world for Jesus and that it is the Lord's command upon them to subdue all things, and to bring all things into subjection to the Father, they will be ready to go almost any lengths with any and everything opposing this theory, which has become so entrenched in their minds.

It is true that the glorious day is to dawn, that the scriptures affirm it; but Christendom in general stands with its back to the sunrise and is looking for the millennial blessings in the west. Hence Christendom in general fails to recognize the streaks of dawn already visible to the watchers who, being in line with the divine word, are properly looking toward the second coming of Christ, for the sunrise of the great millennial day, for the revelation of the great millennial king, for the glorification of the Lamb's wife at the promised marriage supper.

When preparing this discourse my eye fell upon a tabulation prepared for Sunday school teachers by a celebrated doctor of divinity, which was intended to show how rapidly the Lord's kingdom is now conquering the world. We refer to this as a proof of our assertion that our dear Christian friends in general, misled by the wrong theories on the subject of Christ's kingdom, are looking to the westward instead of to the east, the real point of sunrise. The table mentioned sets forth that in the year A. D. 1000 there were 50,000,000 of Christians; in A. D. 1500, 100,000,000; in the year 1800, 200,000,000; in the year 1880, 415,000,000. I presume if the table were carried up to date the claim would be five or six hundred millions of Christians. The doctor of divinity who prepared this table, and many of those who will examine it, overlook the fact that the 50,000,000 of the year A. D. 1000 and the 100,000,000 of the year A. D. 1500, were nearly all Roman Catholics or Greek Catholics, and that similarly the 415,000,000 of 1880 consisted of more than two-thirds Catholics, Greek and Roman. This Protestant minister seemingly forgot and expected his readers to forget that Protestant missionaries in France, in Spain, in Italy, in the orient and elsewhere in the world, are sustained for the avowed purpose of freeing those peoples from the darkness and superstition of a false Christianity.

The realization that no one body of Protestants could ever hope to dominate the world, yea, that all of them could never accomplish such a mission, is leading not only to a desire for Protestant federation, but also for a closer relationship with and a general recognition of the Roman and Greek Catholic systems. All this willingness ignores doctrines and principles is the fruitage of this wrong theory that God expects the church to conquer the world and establish the millennial condition before Christ comes. This is called the post-millennial view and is the prevalent view amongst Christians everywhere.

Figures That Do Not Lie.

If our dear friends who entertain this unscriptural view (Catholics and Protestants) could but see its unreasonableness, there would be some hope that some of them at least would abandon it, but they seem blind to reason on the subject. Take their own figures, and look for the 415,000,000 of Christians that they say will shortly comprise the remaining 1,100,000,000 and establish the millennium. Do we not see from the latest census returns that the natural increase of human kind the world over during the last decade was 8 per cent, and this compounded would mean 115 per cent in the century. Taking their own figures, Christianity is not increasing in any such ratio, and hence the conversion of the world is really further off every year.

To make my meaning more clear: The largest estimate of the world's population in the year 1800, was that given by Pinkerton, who estimated it at 760,000,000; Volney in the previous year, 1804, gave his estimate as 437,000,000. We grant the larger figures, 760,000,000, and then take the estimates made by the doctor of divinity already referred to that there were 200,000,000 Christians at that time. Allowing these figures, there were only 560,000,000 of heathen to be converted in the year 1805, while by the same figures there were over 1,200,000,000 that needed converting in the year of 1880. How long will it require to convert the world at this rate? Why cannot the bright minds that are satisfied with this erroneous theory see the fallacy of it and seeing its fallacy, why do they not promptly turn and confess the truth and throw their influence toward the re-establishment of the primitive faith of the church, the faith once delivered to the saints by the Lord and His apostles—that the morning cometh only with the second coming of our Lord.

But, dear friends, should you think that facts did not thus knock the entire bottom out of this false theory, this false hope which Christendom is pursuing—suppose that there were the best of reasons that the whole 1,000,000,000 of the world's population could be converted in the same sense that the 415,000,000 are converted, what would it mean? What would it mean the millennium which the apostles taught? Would it mean the kingdom for which our Lord taught us to pray, "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven?" Alas! no. If churchanity ever succeeded in grasping her ideal we see that it would be but an apple of Sodom. Look for a moment at the Christians who compose this 415,000,000. The more you examine into the more you will be convinced that the thing they all need most is to be converted fully. Not only are the majority of them Greek and Roman Catholics, but the majority of all the infants and children whose future must needs yet be determined either for Christ or the world, for in this reckoning of Christians professedly all of Europe is included as Christian except Turkey. Consequently it is from this 415,000,000 that we find growing lists of murderers, suicides, thieves, boodlers and grafters being recruited.

With a hope of the world's being converted to such conditions, dear friends, we have and should have no hope. Surely many of the poor heathen are much better off left by themselves than brought under such conditions as are facetiously called Christendom. We do not praise the heathen; none, we believe, appreciate more than we the great needs of heathendom, but something far better than nominal Christendom has to offer them is needed. With Christendom goes certain measures of so-called civilization, which in some respects perhaps is advantageous, but in many respects is injurious. Comparing the 1,200,000,000 with the 400,000,000 so-called Christians, we find that, in some particulars, the heathen have quite the advantage. The 400,000,000 nominal Christians do the bulk of the fighting, swearing, liquor drinking and a considerable share of its general dishonesty and stealing. God forbid that we should be forced to accept any such millennium as would be brought about by the conversion of the world to such conditions. We are here reminded of our Lord's words to the Pharisees in His day: "Ye compass sea and land to make a proselyte, and when his is made he is two-fold more a child of Gehenna than yourselves."

Love for Mission Work.

From infancy I have sympathized with the heathen and longed to help them. I still have this same love and desire, but my eyes of understanding have opened wider since childhood. I now perceive that God loves the heathen and the whole world not only as much as I do, but more. I have heard His message saying, "As the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways and My plans higher than your plans," and I have come to realize the truth of this and see the great plan which God has for the salvation of the world.

This plan I now see is first of all the selection from the world of suitable missionaries, Jesus is the head of this missionary company, and during the gospel age the Holy Spirit has been attracting under the terms of the gospel, along the lines of the narrow way of self-denial and self-sacrifice, those whom the Lord is pleased to associate with Himself as His church, His bride, in the great missionary enterprise which was purposed from before the foundation of the world.

These missionaries receive their training under the present reign of sin and death, but as soon as the entire company graduates the scene will change. They will be invested with divine power and authority, and will scatter the present night of sin and death and constitute the sun of righteousness which shall heal the world with its benign beams. This is the glorious morning mentioned in our text—the morning of the grand millennial age, the golden age of the poets, the day of Christ in the language of the apostles. The Psalmist declares: "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning," and our hearts are glad because we see the dawning of the millennial day already beginning and the shadows of the dark night fleeing.

This glorious day is coming not by the conversion of the world under present conditions, not by calling the kingdoms of this world the kingdom of Christ, not by calling all classes living in civilized countries "saints of Most High God." The morning is dawning because the Lord's time has come for the second advent—for the establishment of the kingdom for which we pray, "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven"—because the times of restitution of all things spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began, are about to begin. I cannot here and now give you the proofs that we are already chronologically entering this great day of the Lord, but the proofs are abundant and clear, and for the asking may be had to read by any of you. They are found in a book entitled the "Millennial Dawn Series," which, by the grace of God, are scattered in various languages throughout the world to the extent of over a million and a quarter copies.

Clouds and Darkness.

In our text the prophet declares that not only the morning comes, but also a night. This signifies that while the morning is dawning a specially dark period will come over the affairs of earth and this dark cloud is already manifest. In the scriptures it is termed a "time of trouble such as was not since there was a nation." (Dan. xii:1.) The various descriptions lead us to understand that this trouble will be occasioned by anarchy, which will overthrow all present institutions, social, political and religious, and cause the greatest suffering in the world that has ever been known. We can see the forces organizing whose conflict will eventuate in this anarchy: on one hand we see capital combining and entrenching itself and getting its hold on the necessities of life in every direction; on the other hand we see labor equally active in its combinations and entrenchments, and undoubtedly the coming conflict will be between the two, and the scriptures show us the anarchous results.

We would not intrude this awfully dark scene in this connection, but that it is referred to in our text and frequently is necessary as an explanation of the process by which the Lord intends to establish His kingdom of righteousness. Man's extremity will become God's opportunity. The highest attainment of civilization resulting in anarchy will greatly humble the pride of humanity and make the world ready for the kingdom of righteousness and peace which will then be ushered in. The trouble of that awful time will be the plowshare of the Lord for preparing the hearts of the world for the glorious blessings of His millennial kingdom, and thus even the evil things shall work out good under divine Providence.

What manner of persons ought we to be who see the glorious dawning of the millennial day, and who see also the intervening night of trouble? As the apostle intimates, holiness of life should be and is induced and assisted by this knowledge of the divine plan. Our hopes and affections rise above the things of this present life to the glorious things of the kingdom of righteousness, the kingdom of God's dear Son, and we long for the time when God's will shall be done perfectly and absolutely among men as it is now done among the angels of heaven. Truly the apostle declared, "He that hath this hope in Him purifieth himself, even as He is pure."—(1 John iii:3.)

SUNDAY CRUSADE DYING.

Sabbath Association Will Endeavor to Educate Public as Successors.

Agent P. T. Gamble of the Allegheny County Sabbath Observance association spent a quiet day yesterday. The association has been without detectives for four weeks, and has made no effort to engage any. Gamble says he does not know what the plans are.

It is generally conceded the recommendation of some of the Baptist clergymen that the Sunday observance campaign be carried on by citizens instead of by the clergy and church have been adopted by the association and the promised campaign of education is to be an effort to enthuse the public to act and take the uneasy burden from the shoulders of the association.

Congregation Held Rally Services.

Annual rally day of the congregation of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, was observed yesterday with special services morning and evening. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton, preached appropriate sermons at both services while special music and interesting exercises were introduced.

Visiting Pastors in Local Pulpits.

The Rev. Dr. John Fox of New York occupied the pulpit of the Third Presbyterian church, South Negley avenue, yesterday morning, and preached in the North Presbyterian church Allegheny last night. The Rev. Dr. David Breed of the Western Theological seminary preached both morning and evening in the Bellefield Presbyterian church.

WHY APPENDICITIS?

Why is appendicitis so common today?

Because we have got into the pernicious habit of eating too fast.

Dr. Curtis, the great authority on this disease, says: "Appendicitis often follows the eating of a very hasty, or particularly large or indigestible meal."

After carelessly following a foolish custom, you can ensure your safety by taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

It is an accepted, scientific truth, which admits of no dispute, that if you will only keep your digestive apparatus in good order, you will never suffer from this dread disease, which, at best, means a weakening operation, with long weeks wasted in bed, and big doctor's and surgeon's bills to pay as souvenirs.

Keep your appendix in health by the proper use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, whenever you have laid yourself open to danger by overeating, and upon the least sign of stomach or intestinal trouble, for otherwise, at any time, this dangerous disease may lay you low.

The curative influence of this great medicine is quickly shown in the gentle, soothing effect it has on all inflamed conditions of any part of the digestive tract.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets tone all these parts up to a proper condition of perfect health, and regulate their functions into a proper working state.

They also make away with all the causes of irritation, inflammation or indigestion, by helping to dissolve, digest and assimilate, or put to proper use, all the food which is lying around in odd corners of your digestive apparatus, fermenting, rotting and curdling, like so much garbage in a dirty sink.

In these natural and perfectly simple ways, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets restore all sufferers from any form of dyspeptic trouble, to health.

They are safe and reliable. They never fail to relieve and cure, quickly and permanently.

Use them, and you need never worry about your vermiform appendix.

CHURCH PASSES HALF A CENTURY

Lutheran Congregation at Rochester, Pa., Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary.

FORMER PASTORS ARE PRESENT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROCHESTER, PA., Oct. 23.—The 50th anniversary of Grace Lutheran church was celebrated here today. All the former living pastors participated in the exercises. They are the Rev. Dr. H. W. Roth, Pittsburgh; the Rev. J. W. Meyers, Reynoldsville; the Rev. C. H. Hemsath, Washington; the Rev. J. F. Heckert, Wilkinsburg, and the Rev. Dr. J. E. Whittaker, Lancaster. The Rev. F. A. Bowers is the present pastor. The service of the holy communion was held at 10 a. m. The Rev. C. H. Hemsath made the communion address. Twenty-nine new members were received.

The anniversary service was held at 11 o'clock when the Rev. Dr. J. W. Roth preached the anniversary sermon. A letter of congratulation was read from Dr. D. H. Geissinger, pastor of the First Lutheran church, Pittsburgh. In the afternoon services were conducted on "English Home Missions." At 7:30 p. m. a vesper service was held and addresses were made by the Rev. Dr. J. E. Whittaker and the Rev. J. F. Heckert. A large portrait of the founder of the church, the late Rev. A. Passavant of Pittsburgh, was suspended above the pulpit. The church was crowded at each service.

Grace church is the oldest church in Rochester and has the largest congregation, numbering 310 members. It afforded the first public place of worship and established the first Sunday school in Rochester. The first services by Dr. Passavant in Rochester were in 1854, in the paintshop of the old car works on the bank of the Ohio river.

Church conditions in Cuba were interestingly described in the Shady Avenue Baptist church yesterday by the Rev. Thomas H. Sprague of Puerto Principe, Cuba, who occupied the pulpit during the morning service. M

HEALTHY STOCK ADVANCE PROMISES TO CONTINUE

Extension of Investments Along Rational Lines Indicated—Improvement Does Not Warrant Speculative Craze.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Nothing developed during the week in Wall street calculated to alter in any way in the immediate future the course of the investment and speculative markets. Upon the contrary, conditions and forces which made possible and sustained the movements thus far, point strongly to continuance. Abundant supplies of money, the prevailing easy rates, slowly improving business and returning confidence lead to the hope of extension of the healthful investment demand along rational lines.

With conditions as favorable as they are for sustained confidence there is no logical reason why for a time longer investment demand should not hold good, and no reason why coincident therewith the pools and cliques and all the combined machinery of the market place, from the manipulators to the great financial powers that employ them or at least aid and abet their efforts, should not continue the marking up process. Fine securities reach their natural level, good stocks go a little beyond it, and in the end the price of the blind pool shares and those of semi-bankrupt railway and industrial propositions obtain ridiculous heights. How the thing will end everybody knows. When it will end no one can foretell, nor is there any telling what accident or development will apply the check, but prices in their advance, like trees in their growth, stop somewhere.

Why the speculative market is likely to continue in its advancing course for a time longer, despite the prevailing high prices and the added dangers of disaster arising from the terrific pace which has been set, is simple enough. Many, if not all, the conditions which, it is admitted, justified improvement in the first instance continue unimpaired, while some influencing factors which in the inception were but hopes, have materialized into gratifying actual facts. It is scarcely necessary to particularize or enumerate the favorable factors entering into the situation, and those which, if continued without check, promise so brightly for the future. These center chiefly around the continued ease of money, the slowly improving business situation, the generally satisfactory outcome of the harvests, with abundance in some staples, and satisfactory prices elsewhere, as compensation for shortage, and the satisfactory progress of the political campaign.

WHEAT MARKET MADE A SUDDEN DECLINE

Corn and Oats Were Also Off One-Half Cent —Provisions Remained Unchanged.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Under the influence of indifferent cables the wheat market opened with a somewhat easier feeling, December being a shade higher to ⅝@¾c lower at $1 13¼@1 15⅛. May was a shade higher to ¼@⅜c lower at $1 14@1 14⅜. Commission houses were moderate sellers at the start. Allured by the small decline shorts soon became active bidders for the December option. Not enough wheat was offered to supply the demand, and in consequence prices made a rapid advance, December quickly rising to $1 16⅛. Meantime May sold up to $1 15¼. The continued bullishness of the cash situation was the chief underlying factor affecting early trading. On the advance there was heavy selling by a leader of the bull crowd, covering estimated placings his total sales at nearly 1,000,000 bushels, most of which was May. Alarmed by the persistent selling pit traders changed and sold freely. Prices declined rapidly as they had previously risen. Houses with northwestern connections were conspicuous on the selling side. Weakness at Minneapolis had considerable influence here late in the day's trading, however, was relatively quiet during the last half hour. The market closed practically at the lowest point of the day. After selling at $1 16, December closed at $1 15⅝@1 15¾, a net loss of ⅜c. Final quotations on May were at $1 13⅞. Clearances for the day were 32,000 barrels of flour. Primary receipts were 1,544,000 bushels, compared with 1,057,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 724 cars, against 907 cars last week and 772 cars a year ago.

Firm cables and a good cash demand caused some degree of strength in corn early in the session. There was some buying by scalpers on the strength of wheat. With the break in wheat, however, the corn market lost its initial firmness. Predictions of colder weather also helped to depress prices. Trading throughout the day was of small volume and largely of local character. December opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 48¼@48c, sold off to 48¼c and closed at 48¼@48⅜c. Local receipts were 112 cars, with six of contract grade.

Little interest was manifested in oats, the market being governed almost wholly by the action of other grains. After opening and changed ¼c lower at 29¼@29¼c, December sold off to 28⅝c and closed at the low point. Local receipts were 112 cars.

The early provision market was strong on buying for outsiders and by local shorts. Offerings were light until the grain markets showed a tendency to weaken. Then some of the early buyers sold out and the greater portion of the advance was lost. Small receipts of hogs and higher prices at the yards were a bull factor. At the close January pork was unchanged at $13 75. Lard was up 2½@5c at $7 27½. Ribs were up a shade at $6 85.

Estimated receipts for Monday—Wheat, 84 cars; corn, 78 cars; oats, 151 cars; hogs, 31,000 head.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK IN THE LOCAL MARKETS

Flour Dealers Predict an Early Advance if Wheat Holds Its Price.

All lines in the local market reported an exceptionally good trade last week. The grocery trade, in spite of the high price of flour, had nothing but good feeling for conditions. Flour sales have been heavy and dealers have had some difficulty to meet demands, owing to conditions on the railroads, which are already suffering the annual freight blockade.

Flour prices have remained firm during the week, regardless of the action of the wheat market. Good No. 1 wheat is exceedingly scarce in the northwest and millers are buying largely from hand to mouth, as farmers who have the best grade of wheat are holding back for higher prices. There is no difficulty at the Pittsburgh mills in getting full price exceeding that of the speculative market, the millers being only too willing to pay a premium for the best grades. The most conservative dealers anticipate a marked advance this week if the market holds firm at its present high figure.

The price of pocket salt advanced last week to confirm to the advance made by the manufacturers. New Orleans molasses will be in the market in a few days, as will new California prunes. The first carload of prunes arrived Saturday and molasses is beginning to come in rapidly now.

In produce lines the week was one of the best the dealers have had for months. The hearings before the interstate commerce commission in Chicago were the principle subject of discussion among the dealers along Liberty street last week. They are all hoping and praying for the defeat of the car owners, claiming, without a single exception, that the discrimination shown by the capacities given the refrigerator and fruit carrying cars is such there is no money in it for any man not a member of the close combination.

There are 153 carloads of potatoes in the yards to start the week with today. Twenty-nine of these came in yesterday. The average carload is about 200 bushels. The potato market holds up well in spite of the large receipts, but this is accounted for by dealers who say that Pittsburgh is the greatest potato city in the country. More of the tubers are used here, they claim, than in any other city of the country, and the big lot held over Saturday will be all gone by the end of the week. They do not fear an overstock. Many of those now coming in, they say, are for storage and will not go on the market until along in the winter and spring, when the price will be greatly in excess of what it is now.

Receipts of fruit and produce Saturday were better than for several days. The quantity of goods held over from Saturday was as follows: Apples 52, bananas 2, cabbage 51, carrots 1, cantaloupes 1, celery 4, cranberries 1, grapes 46, lemons 1, onions 16, oranges 1, peaches 5, pears 17, potatoes 131, sweet potatoes 17, turnips 4, California fruits 1, miscellaneous 10.

HAY AND GRAIN RECEIPTS.

Receipts of hay, grain and feed in the Pittsburgh railroad yards Saturday were as follows: Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 8 cars hay, 1 car oats; Baltimore & Ohio, 6 cars hay, 5 cars oats, 1 cars corn; Pennsylvania lines, 21 cars hay, 17 cars oats, 2 cars oats and corn, 4 cars feed, 2 cars corn, 1 car straw, 5 cars rye.

Receipts Saturday were better than for any day during the past week. Hay was particularly good, although no more came in than the market readily absorbed. Rye straw went up another peg, the demand for it being on the rampage. Wheat and oats also moved up, the market showing a more lively sale. Oats shaded off a half cent all along the list, while corn and other grains remained firm.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.

Operators in the lower southwest fields had little to attract their attention during the week past. The usual number of wells were completed in all districts, except the deep sand territory where there is a slight falling off in completed work. The district that is attracting the most attention at this time is the 30-foot development sheet of Washington, Fayette county. In this district there is a very marked increase in development work and the most of it is on the wildcat order. For some time to come each well completed will have an important bearing in some direction, according to its respective location from the present producers. So far the most important are the South Penn company's No. 1 on the C. S. Pitzer farm, more than three months old and still producing close to 125 barrels a day. The second is the Delmar Oil Company's good well on the Hays farm, drilled in two weeks ago, and holding up at 400 barrels a day and giving it the distinction of being the best producer in the entire southwest fields at this time.

Those who have visited the new development say the hustle and bustle to start new work resembles the exciting times that have characterized the development of other pools in the past. The wells now drilling are being pushed to completion with all possible speed and more should be known of the probable dimensions of the pool within a few weeks. In the opinion of those best informed, it is not expected to be a large pool, but exceedingly productive for its size. The lasting qualities of the 30-foot formation is a feature that commends it to those holding leases in that section.

With the work now under way and starting it is expected that there will be 25 or 30 wells drilling in the district within the next two weeks. Operators are taking advantage of the good weather and roads to get in material and thereby avoid the delay and expense that would follow during the early winter months. With the development of no other territory to divert attention operators are concentrating their efforts on the new pool and the first two wells completed are sufficient to stimulate aggressive operations.

The Berea grit development, on Yellow creek, Calhoun county, holds first place in the lower southwest in the amount of operations and results. More wells are being completed in this district and with a better average in production than in any other field. Very few dry holes have been encountered and the average size of the wells at time of completion must exceed 50 barrels. Some of the largest start as high as 150 barrels a day. They decline, it is true, but after they settle down to their normal production a pretty steady production. The recent efforts to extend the producing area of the field have resulted in small wells or dusters and there is not much to encourage going farther in advance of the producing limits as now defined. However, there is a small amount of experimental work starting and under way in the county. Part of this class of work has for its object the discovery of new pools, rather than an extension of the old.

In Roane county there is a little new work starting along the northern edge of the county. All through the year there has been spasmodic efforts made to advance the producing lines in that direction, but the efforts have not been fruitful results. The Yellow creek field has been largely responsible for the experimental work that has been done in Roane county.

With a very few exceptions the development work in the deep sand districts during the past week resulted in light wells or dusters, with a liberal contribution of gassers where better things were expected. In the Salem district, Harrison county, the South Penn got one of the best producers that has been completed in that district for some time when it drilled in its No. 12 on the M. T. Williams farm and secured a producer that placed 110 barrels to its credit the first 24 hours after the Gordon pay was tapped. There is a falling off in operations in this district and scarcely any hope for a revival. The field has been defined for some time and the interior has been quite fully defined.

The Folsom district has done nothing to encourage active development work, or even continue to hold attention. The new wells coming in light and the number of dusters is increasing. On the extreme east side there is some new work starting and when territory in that direction has been fully developed there will be a lull in the district. The Littleton and Pine Grove districts in Wetzel county are not improving and both are showing a decline in development work. In both districts a number of the late wells have resulted in gassers.

In Tyler, Pleasants, Wood and Ritchie counties a considerable decline in operations is apparent. The Wick district, in the first named, is still the most active and is bringing in an occasional good producer. One of the remarkable things in connection with this pool is the way some of the old wells are still producing.

The point of most interest on the Ohio side is the new discovery a mile to the north and in advance of the Keener sand development, near Woodsfield, Monroe county. The combination well, a test drilled by a number of interested leaseholders in that locality, located on the Barbara Sheets farm, is reported holding up at better than 100 barrels a day. In order to test the territory a number of leases, the property of Prindle Drilling Company, the Southern Oil Company and individual operators contributed to help put down the test. Now that it is a good producer those holding leases are not losing any time in starting new work. To the south of this well for a mile in the direction of the old development there is work to be expected to be connected up, the Southern Oil Company and the Imperial Oil and Gas Company have large holdings and are beginning active development work.

In the shallow sand districts, in Washington and Morgan counties, operators are active, but no agreat size to the wells have been much smaller than two months ago. A new well that starts now as good as 50 barrels a day is the exception.

JUDGE PARKER BADLY FOOLED

Nothing to Warrant His Philippine Speech, Declares Gov. Wright.

SPECIFIC DENIAL IS ENTERED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The following cablegram from Secretary of War Taft to Gov. Wright of the Philippine Islands and from the governor to the secretary in reply, were made public at the war department today:

"October 20, 1904.

"Mr. Wright, Manila:

"The Democratic candidate for president, on the 15th of the present month in a public address, said:

"'But two classes of our people can hope to be benefited by our holding the Philippines—the class which is always hunting for special "government" privileges, and the class which seeks to make of office holding a means of livelihood. The latter class in the Philippines comprises some officials of whom a student of conditions there recently said: "Of the character of many in office too little cannot be said. At the best they have been inefficient, at the worst, dishonest, corrupt and despotic. The islands seem to have succeeded in getting the very dregs of our people."

"He also said: 'The situation in the Philippines today is so terrible that it passes the comprehension of our people at home. Agriculturally, the country is for the time ruined. Land is going out of cultivation, the population is ill fed and in some places unable to get work. The country is overburdened with taxation, disease is prevalent, the farm animals dead, the towns in many places in ruins, whole districts in the hands of ladrones, the price of products poor and unremunerative.

Wright Makes a Reply.

"'Public opinion has no free expression, newspapers are bought up or browbeaten into silence; men of influence who criticise the commission are ostracised; the plays produced in the theater are censored; there is not an organ of expression of the popular voice, that is not controlled. In private life, men are subject to a complete, far-reaching, thorough system of espionage. Detectives appear in the guise of servants, and the oath of a single one is enough to destroy a man's reputation, property, or even life itself.'

"Your comment as civil governor upon this statement of conditions in the islands is requested.

"(Signed,) "TAFT."

The reply of Gov. Wright was received here from Manila at 1 p. m. today (October 23) and was as follows:

"Manila.

"Secretary of War, Washington:

"With reference to your telegram of the 20th, quoting recent utterances of Judge Parker upon the administration and conditions here, and requesting a statement of facts relating thereto, I report as follows:

"First—The statement that any considerable number of officials have proven corrupt, inefficient or despotic, does grave injustice to a body of hard-working, self-respecting Americans, whose character and service will compare favorably with those of employes of the federal or state governments. Whilst there have been a number of defaults by subordinates, they are few as compared with the whole, and have been promptly detected and punished.

Parker's Tale Unfounded.

"Second—Nothing warranting the statement that towns are in ruins, lands are going out of cultivation, people ill-fed, unable to get work and country ruined agriculturally. Towns in same state as before the insurrection, save few burned by insurgents, which have been rebuilt and reoccupied. Towns generally populated as before. Sanitary conditions greatly improved, demand for labor generally equals and in some cases exceeds supply and at increased wages.

Third. Taxation is not oppressive. Customs duties average about 18 per cent ad valorem, as compared with 25 per cent under Spanish regime. Industrial taxes also less than Spanish. Receipts honestly applied for the benefit of the people.

Fourth. It is not true that there are whole districts in the hands of ladrones. There have been occasional instances during the last year of depredations of ladrones, who find concealment in remote mountain fastnesses and raid isolated settlements of natives and steal their carabaos. They have been relentlessly pursued by the constabulary and scouts, who are natives usually commanded by American officers. As a result of this policy, ladronism is no longer popular or profitable. There is no disorder or disposition to violence among the great mass of the people, who are attending to their usual vocations. Americans can and do go everywhere without danger or thought of it. In 1903 there were about 18,000 American troops in the islands. This year there are only about 12,000. It may be stated generally that life and property are as safe here as in the United States.

Where the Trouble Occurred.

These general statements as to peace and order are intended to apply to all of the islands inhabited by civilized Filipinos, except Island of Samar. It has a population in the mountains of the interior, many of whom have never seen a white man, are semi-savage, and have a weakness for raiding towns along the coast. They are also religious fanatics, generally directed by a pope claiming to be invulnerable. Seven months since there was an eruption of these people who plundered and burned a number of barrios of coast towns, killing men, women and children when the slightest resistance was offered. They have been given a severe lesson by the constabulary and scouts, but there are still a number of small bands of these people prowling about the country. Similar half-wild men are found scattered through the mountains of the archipelago, and until their country is opened up by roads and schools are established, occasional disturbances of the character indicated may be expected.

Fifth. Statements that newspapers are bought up or brow-beaten into silence, that men of influence who criticise the commission are ostracised, that all organs of expression of public opinion controlled and that there is no free expression of the popular mind, are wholly unsupportable by facts. Political questions, including immediate independence, are every day discussed freely and without interference; theatrical plays are not censured. The only possible excuse for such statement is that something over a year ago a crack-brained playwright produced a play in Tagalog, full of insurrectionary utterances and culminating in the tearing down and stamping upon the American flag upon the stage, for which he and some of his fellow actors were prosecuted and convicted. It is equally untrue that men in private life are subjected to espionage, or that detectives in the guise of servants are employed. All these statements are the veriest nonsense, without a scintilla of fact to support them. The only use to which detectives are put is to ferret out criminals, as is done in the United States, and the number of detectives employed by the government, upon comparison, will be found to be fewer here, in proportion to population, than in New York.

Judge Parker has evidently been grossly deceived.

TRIAL OF BRIBERY CHARGES.

Former Councilman John Sharp of South Sharon Will Be Arraigned at Mercer Today.

SHARON, PA., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—John Sharp, ex-councilman of South Sharon, will be placed on trial at Mercer this morning on charges of soliciting bribes, maintaining a gambling house and selling liquor without a license. Three months ago he was arrested in New Castle.

The principal witness in the case is Clara Lawson, who lived in South Sharon when Sharp was a member of the council. She also left the town when Sharp disappeared. Last night Chief of Police Henry C. Sumner arrested the women in Ellwood City.

Weak Attempt at Suicide.

Annie Maxwell, aged 30, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon at her home, 2113 Penn avenue. She drank about six drops of carbolic acid in a glass of water and the services of a physician were hardly necessary to bring her to. She had been drinking.

LOWELLVILLE COAL BANK WITH AN ENTRANCE ON MAIN STREET

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 23.—A coal bank with the opening on the main street of a town is a most unusual thing. One exists at Lowellville, this county, a village of something like 2,000 inhabitants. A party of Youngstown people opened the bank after the village council had given them permission, and when the coal comes out, it is piled on the edge of the street. The vein struck is 8½ feet thick. Thirty miners are at work.

WARRIOR PAYS NATURE'S DEBT

General Samuel Duncan Oliphant Expires of Old Age at His Trenton Home.

WAS A FORMER PITTSBURGHER

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 23.—Gen. Samuel Duncan Oliphant, for 34 years clerk of the United States circuit court for the district of New Jersey, a Union soldier and one of the commanding officers of the troops that guarded the court house during the trial of the assassins of President Lincoln, died at his home in this city, aged 80 years. Death was due to general debility induced by old age.

Gen. Oliphant was born at Franklin Forge, at the little falls of the Youghlogheny river, Franklin township, Fayette county, Pa., August 1, 1824. He was the second son of a family of 11 children. He was educated at Uniontown, prepared for college at Bethel academy, near Pittsburgh, and was graduated in 1844 from Jefferson college. He was also graduated from the Harvard law school in 1846 and was admitted to the practice of law in 1847.

He began his military life in the old Union volunteers, and in 1849 was elected lieutenant-colonel commanding the battalion of uniformed militia of Fayette county. In the fall of 1850 he moved to Pittsburgh, but the climate did not agree with his wife's health and he went to Uniontown two years later.

When Ft. Sumter was fired upon in 1861, Col. Oliphant raised a company of soldiers and became its captain. His command was later cast with the Eighth regiment of Pennsylvania Reserves, and he was made lieutenant-colonel. In 1865 he was promoted to the rank of brigadier-general.

Gen. Oliphant was twice married, his first wife being Mary Campbell of Uniontown. She died in 1875 and subsequently the general married Miss Beaulah Oliphant, of the same name as himself, but no relation.

SECT-RIDDEN COUNTRY IS THE UNITED STATES

Episcopal Bishop Also Says Boston Is a City of "Fads and Numerous Cults."

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—Leading officials of the Episcopal general convention participated in the consecration of the Rev. Father Edward Osborne of this city, for many years superior of the American branch of the society of mission priests of St. John the Evangelist, as bishop coadjutor of the diocese of Springfield, Ill., here today.

The preacher was the Right Rev. Arthur L. Williams, bishop coadjutor of Nebraska. Bishop Williams referred to the United States as a "sect-ridden country," and to Boston as a city of "fads and numerous cults." The Episcopal church, he said, had the apostolic ministry and its sacraments were the ones which Christ instituted. The church could not abandon its principles if it was to be the center of the unity of disintegration denominations. He expressed the hope that the church now called Episcopal might be known as the American Catholic church.

Pontiff Deplores Combes' Victory.

ROME, Oct. 23.—Pope Pius X. was up almost the whole of last night waiting for telegrams from Mgr. Montagnini, auditor of the papal nunciatur of Paris, about the flason de French chamber of deputies. His holiness had not thought that the premier's majority in the chamber would be so large as it was. The pope and his entourage attribute the new success of Premier Combes to the influence of the Free Masons. When the news was received the pontiff exclaimed: "God's will be done."

Historical Society Organized.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The United States Historical society was incorporated yesterday under the laws of the District of Columbia, with the following officers: President, Maj. J. H. Stine, historian of the Army of the Potomac, Washington, D. C.; treasurer, Capt. Robert H. Wood, Washington, D. C.; secretary, Capt. J. Walter Mitchell, Washington, D. C. The object of the society is to collect any valuable historical matter particularly relating to the army from colonial times on.

Accused of Holding Up Men.

William Amen was fined $25 and costs or 90 days to the workhouse yesterday as a suspicious character. He and two other boys were said to have held up Adam Yizeski and Rudolf Baley, getting $28 from the former and $2 from the latter. Claud Tower was fined the same amount for trying to rob a drunken man.

Has your boy plenty of pluck? Does he hold out?

Grit, courage, strength, finishing power are essential these days. The reason why doctors so often order Ayer's Sarsaparilla for thin, pale, delicate children is because it supplies these essentials. It makes the blood pure, rich. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

FRICK'S CONSERVATORY THE MAGNET THAT DREW

Has a Fine Display of Chrysanthemums, Begonias and Orchids—Schenley Opens Next Sunday.

Many persons misunderstood the date of the opening of the chrysanthemum show in Schenley park conservatory and on going to the conservatory yesterday saw no evidence of the display, unless it was that the economic houses had been cleaned out preparatory to being filled with chrysanthemums, the latter being all in the propagating houses, far from the sight of spectators.

But there was one spot of beauty appreciated by lovers of flowers, doubly so on the cold afternoon. The conservatory of H. C. Frick in the East End was open and ready with a display not only of chrysanthemums, but of several other flowers. For some years Mr. Frick has thrown his greenhouses open to the public on Sundays from chrysanthemum show-time till Easter. People go there not only from the near neighborhood, but from the poorer districts of the East End, and when they come David Fraser, Mr. Frick's floriculturist, or one of his assistants, is always glad to show the flowers.

The chrysanthemum display was fine yesterday, but next Sunday the flowers will be at perfection and a new one, produced by a grower in Adrian, Mich., and named after Mr. Frick's daughter, Miss Helen, will be in full bloom. It is of the pink incurved variety and when fully blown will make a large, graceful flower. There are some fine specimens of the "William Duckham," broad petaled, incurved, a flower which took the prize at the show in New York. A large space in the greenhouse is devoted to begonias, now in full bloom, and Chinese peppers, roses, cattleyas and maidenhair ferns lend beauty and decorative effects. There is a fine collection of orchids. The entrance to the conservatory is from Homewood avenue.

The chrysanthemum show at Schenley park will open next Sunday and continue in full bearing for three weeks. Superintendent George W. Burke has 6,000 plants ready to set out. Many of them are already in bloom. Despite the raw weather several hundred persons visited the conservatory and then took in the organ recital given by the city organist, Edwin H. Lemare.

Out at Highland park the zoological garden attracted hundreds. Trainer Ernest Trefow said the animals were in the best of health and that a new red fox was presented by W. Bane of Washington, Pa.

PLENTY OF PROFIT-TAKING.

London Speculators Are Using the Revival in Prices to Good Advantage.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(Copyright, Cable.)—Much has been heard during the week of the revival of business in the stock exchange, and articles in the lay press proclaimed the imminence of a "boom." It was stated that probably the surest indication of the advent of good times lay in the fact that there has been very little selling for profit-taking purposes during the last two days.

Such sales have been very marked toward the close of the last two accounts, but this time buyers had evidently made up their minds that prices would go higher. As a matter of fact, there has been a good deal of profit-taking speculators being at least as keen to realize on any margin of profit just now as they have ever been. Despite these sales, however, prices have not been greatly affected; for a rise usually brings into the field sellers who are ready to take profits on one security and put their money to the purchase of something else.

There is a strongly marked tendency to regard the boom in Wall street as artificial and British investors are warned.

NEGROES IN THE MAJORITY.

Seventeen Out of 33 Prisoners in Allegheny Central Station Were Colored.

Of the 33 persons given hearings yesterday morning at Allegheny Central station by Magistrate Abernathey, 17 were negroes.

I. N. Scott of Smiths court, and three friends, were arrested in his house for playing cards. Scott was fined $50 and costs or 90 days to the workhouse and the visitors $10 and costs each or 20 days. Sadie Harris of the rear of 103 Craig street, four colored girls and two colored men, were raising a general disturbance in the Harris woman's house. The Harris woman was fine $25 and costs or 60 days and the others $10 and costs or 20 days.

HEATH IN EGYPT FOR HIS HEALTH

Cannot Be Compelled to Return to Testify in Trial of Beavers.

POSTAL OFFICIALS ANNOYED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 22.

It has been reported to the postoffice department that Perry S. Heath, once first assistant postmaster general and secretary of the Republican national committee, has taken up his residence in Egypt for "an indefinite time." The postoffice authorities are interested, as are officials of the department of justice, because the testimony of Mr. Heath was desired in the case of the United States against George W. Beavers, which will come to trial some time during the winter. Heath's uncle, who has always lived in Louisville, has gone to Egypt with his nephew, so the department understands. His testimony was also wished for in this case.

In his report on the postoffice frauds Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, in dealing with the division of salaries and allowances, over which Beavers presided, devotes much space to the Doremus canceling machine. George R. Green of Binghamton, N. Y., was at the head of this company during the period when its peculiar relations with the postoffice department most interested Mr. Bristow. Subsequently indictments were found against Green, Doremus and Beavers, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government.

It is the trial of these indictments to which the testimony of Mr. Heath and his uncle is regarded by the department as so important. In his report Bristow states that "Truesdell for a time was connected with the Doremus company, stated that before the second order was given (by the government) for 100 machines, Green told him he had transferred to Perry S. Heath, first assistant postmaster general, $20,000 worth of his stock in consideration of receiving an order for not less than 300 machines."

Bristow continues further in his report as follows: "Truesdell further states that on all machines sold to the department after the order of 100 of model No. 1, the company was required to pay Beavers $25 on each machine, which Beavers stated was to be divided with Heath."

Subsequently Mr. Heath denied having ownership of shares of stock in the Doremus company, or of having ever had them. But it was alleged by postoffice investigators that an uncle of his in Kentucky had acquired shares of this stock at about this time.

Both Beavers and Green have expressed all confidence in acquittal. Friends have said their political influence was too powerful to permit their punishment, no matter what happened to Machen. While the government very much desires the testimony of Mr. Heath in these cases it seems to have no means of persuasion within its power to induce his return from Egypt in time to testify. Mr. Heath, told friends who met him abroad recently that he was going to Egypt for his health.

TRIO OF SCHOOL DEDICATIONS

Fine Structures Completed in the Sterrett Sub-District and in Wilkinsburg.

OFFICIAL OPENING THIS WEEK

Two splendid public school buildings in the Sterrett sub-district, which comprises the northern half of the big Twenty-Second ward and one in the Semple district, Wilkinsburg, will be dedicated this week. The new buildings in the Sterrett district are the Park place school in Braddock avenue, near Penn, and the Linden avenue school in Linden avenue, near Beechwood boulevard. The district extends along Penn avenue from Point Breeze to the city line at Wilkinsburg, and is the finest and only exclusively residential section of the city. It includes the palatial residences and spacious grounds of a score of millionaires and the new school buildings happily harmonize in beauty and taste with their environment. There are no mills or factories, soot or ore dust in the whole territory to blacken the costly structures.

Citizens Will Make Addresses.

The Sterrett school board invites every resident in its bailiwick and friends of education generally to the dedication of the Park place school on Thursday and to the Linden school on Friday, the hours being from 3 to 5 in the afternoon and from 8 to 10 in the evening. In the evenings there will also be oratory by prominent residents of the district, including Rabbi J. Leonard Levy of the Eighth Street Temple, Hon. Andrew C. Robertson, the Revs. A. R. Van Fossen and W. F. Silveus of the East End Presbyterian and the Second Cumberland Presbyterian churches, respectively; Attorney Robert Wright and others. The erection of two school buildings in one district at the same time is something unprecedented in Pittsburgh.

The Sterrett sub-district, named in honor of the late Chief Justice James P. Sterrett of the state supreme court, is increasing rapidly in school population. An additional teacher was installed in the Linden school last week. Better even than its fine material equipment is its corps of capable instructors, headed by Miss Emma M. Craig, principal, which enabled one of its pupils, James Henderson Forsythe, to capture the first high school honor last year.

Directors Prominent in Business.

The Sterrett school directors are all prominent in business circles and, singularly enough, find time to properly attend to the school business of the district. Secretary W. J. Fleming represented the passenger department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company on the Merchants and Manufacturers trade excursion last week and F. P. Booth was unanimously nominated by the Republicans for common council in the Twenty-second ward Saturday. The other members are Fred J. Heinz, C. W. Dickenson, M. A. Preston and C. N. Hawkins, president.

The Wilkinsburg school board announces the formal dedication of the new Semple school at Swissvale and Anderson streets on Friday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. The directors are: Dr. F. R. Stotler, M. H. Henning, J. D. Anderson, Dr. R. W. Allison, W. R. Jones, W. J. Kennedy, J. M. Lindsay, S. A. Taylor and C. H. Gray. Prof. J. L. Allison is the superintendent and the teachers are: Miss Floda McComb, principal; Miss Jean Donaldson, Miss Sarah E. Hurd, Miss Sadie Wilson, Miss Jennie Downton, Miss Ellen Whitten, Miss Margaret J. Miller, Mrs. Elizabeth Sloan, Miss Edna Wright, Miss Alyda Maxwell, Miss Jessie Baker, Miss Sue Bryar, Miss Laura Dickie, Miss Elizabeth Van Kirk.

BRIDEGROOM IS MISSING.

So Is $100 His Fiancee Gave Him to Buy Furniture.

Bessie Baggage, aged 25, a pretty Pole, living at 410 Diamond street, Pittsburgh, yesterday asked the Allegheny police to find Emil Gentes, also a Pole.

The girl says Gentes, who has lived with his uncle, Joseph Danires, at 420 Shady avenue, Allegheny, for a year or two, kept company with her for 10 months. On Sunday, September 4, she gave him $100 to buy furniture for housekeeping. They were to have been married on the following Tuesday and he was to get the marriage license on Monday morning. She has not seen Gentes since and can get no trace of him.

1,800,000 People

Have Asked Us to Buy Them a 50c Bottle of Liquozone.

We offer to buy the first bottle of Liquozone, and give it free to each sick one who asks it. And we have spent over one million dollars to announce and fulfill this offer. Our object has been to let Liquozone itself show what it can do. A test is better than testimonials, better than argument. In one year 1,800,000 people have accepted this offer. They have told others what Liquozone does, and the others told others. The result is that millions now use it. It is more widely employed than any medicine ever was—more widely prescribed by the better physicians. And your own neighbors—wherever you are—can tell you of people whom Liquozone has cured.

Not Medicine.

Liquozone is not made by compounded drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact that gives Liquozone its worth to humanity. And that worth is so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. This is inevitable.
